Navy And CAB Begin Probing "Buzz" Crash

Bodies Of 16 Killed Removed From Wreckage

PORT DIX, N. J., July 31 (AP) — The Navy today joined the Civil Aeronautics Board in an investigation of the "buzzing" crash of a wildcat fighter and a commercial airliner in which 16 persons died.

Investigators took testimony from a piper cub pilot who said the Navy fighter zoomed past him and swerved in a wide arc into the Eastern Airlines plane, chopping the loaded liner out of a cloudless sky shortly before noon yesterday.

Victims Bodies Recovered
The charred bodies of all 12 passengers and three crew members were recovered from the wreckage of the DC3 airliner. The Navy Pilot, Lieut. (jg) Robert Vernon Poe, 26, Hampton, Va., was found dead beside his unopened parachute some two miles from the crashed transport.

The Navy ordered its own inquiry into the crash as two commercial pilots and the piper cub offered testimony that their plane had been buzzed by naval aircraft over New Jersey shortly before the collision.

In Washington, Admiral Lucian Moebius, Assistant Chief of Naval Operations for air, declined to draw and conclusions until the Navy's inquiry is completed. He told a reporter, however:

"If there was any buzzing it was in direct violation of our existing rules."

A public hearing by the Civil Aeronautics Board into the crash was forecast by William K. Andrews, director of the board's Bureau of Safety Investigation. Its place and time will be determined later.

On the basis of investigation by a CAB team led by Joseph O. Fluet, chief of the board's regional headquarters in New York, Andrews had nothing to add "to what has been in the papers."

No New Regulations
Asked whether the tragedy might lead to new regulations governing planes in the congested New Jersey area, he said:

"Obviously, if the present regulations had been complied with there wouldn't have been an accident."

The Navy announced it had named Capt. Donald MacMahon of Mustang Field, Philadelphia, to head its board of inquiry. MacMahon arrived at the wreckage this morning, joining Fluet of the CAB and Capt. E. H. Parker of Eastern Airlines in the crash probe.

The number one witness was George W. Humphries, Fairhaven, N. J., who operates an airport at Morrisville, Pa.

Humphries was the pilot who said his little plane was buzzed by the Navy fighter just before the airliner was hit. He estimated the crash occurred at 2,000 feet altitude.

Humphries said the fast-flying fighter buzzed him twice and "stood me on my right wing for an instant" before swerving away in a wide arc.

Physician Is Shot By Former Patient
NEW YORK, July 31 (INS) — A 39-year-old physician was shot and critically wounded today by a former patient who laid in ambush at an elevator entrance in the doctor's apartment residence.

The patient, David Kaplan, was arrested four hours later when he wandered into the psychopathic division of New York's Bellevue Hospital.

U. S. Will Stand Firm On Its Reparations Policy In Germany
WASHINGTON, July 31 (AP) — The United States intends to stand firm on the present reparations policy toward Germany despite increasing German complaints against dismantling, a top government official said today.

A move has sprung up in the Senate also to ask a new review of the plants slated to go.

The United States, the official said, is convinced that scheduled plant removals will not jeopardize Western Germany's economic comeback.

At the same time, however, this official said it was very unlikely that the United States would ever claim the full share of German plants to which it is entitled under the inter-allied reparations agreement.

Legal Clamp On A-Secret Is Demanded

Verbal Agreement Not Satisfactory

WASHINGTON, July 31 (AP) — A demand that Congress clamp a legal lid down against the exchange of Atom's bomb secrets with other nations came today from Senator Wherry of Nebraska, the GOP floor leader.

Wherry said in a statement that what he called a "gentleman's agreement" between President Truman and members of the Senate-Atomic Committee is all that now bars the transfer of secrets to Britain and Canada.

"Before the present confused and frustrated Congress adjourns, it ought to pass legislation to make certain the atomic bomb secrets are securely locked and not left to gentleman's agreements," the Nebraska Senator declared.

Wherry's demand followed assurances of President Truman last Thursday that the status quo will be maintained while long range atomic policy toward Britain and Canada is worked out. Congress, Mr. Truman said, will have a full voice in the decisions.

Present arrangements among the three for information and raw supplies are limited in scope and duration, Mr. Truman said.

A plan of co-operation was worked out last year among the three nations following their wartime collaboration on the bomb. Reports have been current that Britain wants a greater share of information. Meanwhile, the U. S. is faced with the fact that Britain and Canada control the great supplies of uranium, raw material in bomb production.

Wherry went beyond the position taken by some of his Republican colleagues.

For instance, Senator Knowland (R-Calif.), member of the Senate-Atomic Committee who brought the issue into the open, said he is satisfied with the President's statement. Previously he had taken the stand that if there was no promise from the President not to exchange information by executive agreement, Congress ought to act to bar any such move.

Korea Invasion Is Seen Coming

SEOUL, July 31 (AP) — Some very important figures in the American-sponsored South Korean government think the time soon must come when this infant Republic must invade the communist-ruled north as a self-defense measure.

These officials contend Korea cannot much longer endure the division of the country into artificial halves and the almost-daily border killings and guerrilla warfare.

Other influential officials maintain that, like it or not, South Koreans must remain patient. Up to now this moderate view has prevailed.

"We don't know what the communists or the Russians would do if we moved against North Korea," said one of these moderates.

"Like all others, he declined use of his name."

Another said a good answer might come if the north should make good its repeated threats to "liberate" the south. In that case, he said, southerners were determined to chase the northern army all the way back to the Manchurian border on the north.

The southern public information department lists 133 southerners killed, 140 missing and 440 wounded; and 2,270 northerners killed, 270 wounded and 206 captured in border clashes from January 1 to June 25.

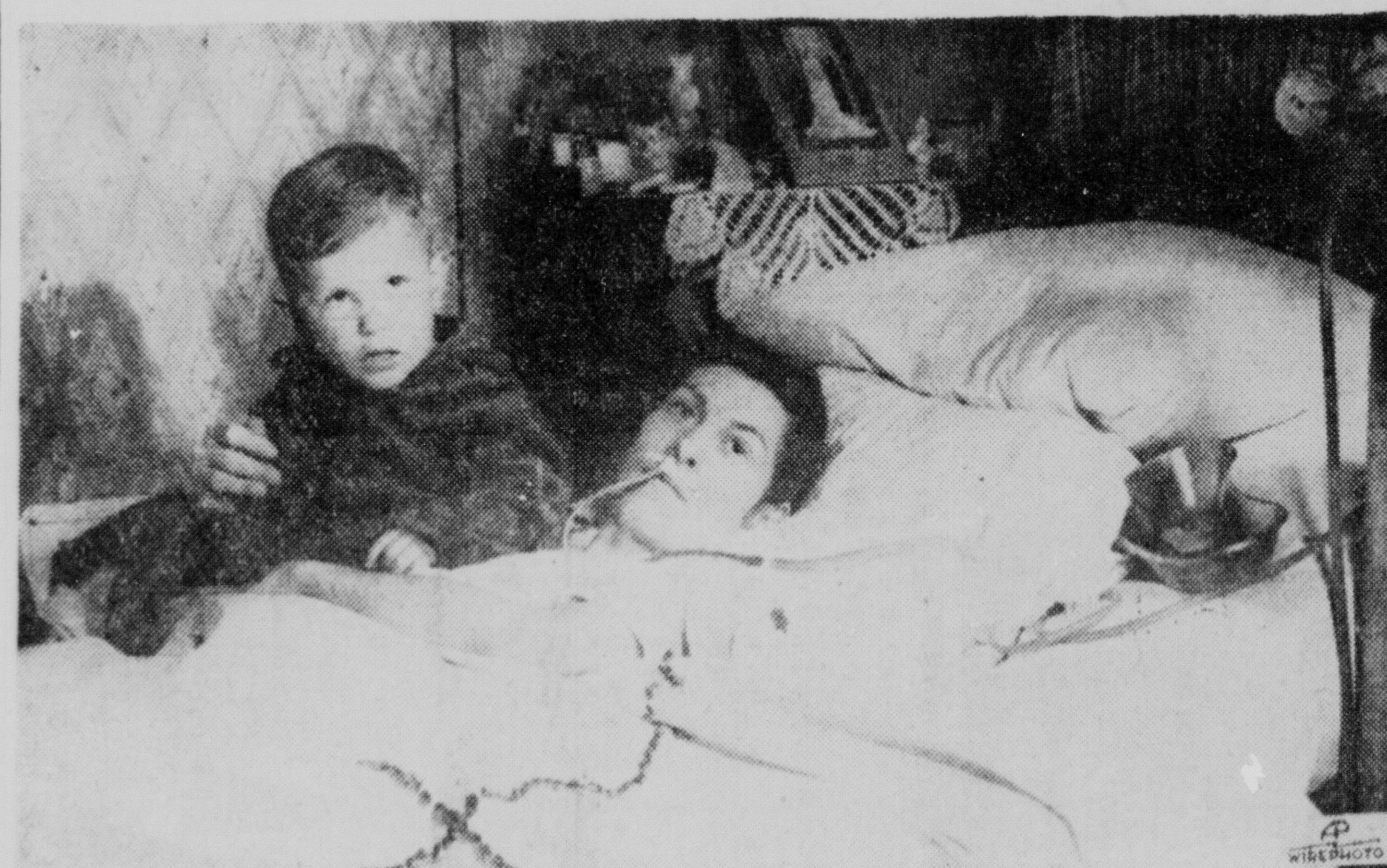

gram made recently by Kurt Schumacher, the Socialist leader in Western Germany.

Schumacher bitterly criticized the dismantling of German plants, saying it was part of a plot to prevent German exports from competing with those of Britain and other European countries.

The American Government is entitled to 11.8 per cent of "surplus" German industrial plants but has thus far removed but one aluminum foil plant and small quantities of machinery and equipment from three others.

A large chemical plant, however, is soon to be made available to private American companies. A metal-fabricating plant is being dismantled for shipment to the Department of the Air Forces.

This official said that thus far private American companies and individuals have shown virtually no interest in German reparations.

Victim Of Beryllium Poisoning

Mrs. Mozzelle Collins Liedtke, 29, Dossville, Miss., a victim of a rare disease, beryllium poisoning, is shown with her son, Don, 3, after she was awarded $20,000 by the government. Mrs. Liedtke, a war-time employee of the Jackson Lamp Works, filed suit for $90,000 claiming she became a helpless invalid as the result of contact with a compound used in making fluorescent lights.

Vaughan Asked To Give Senate 5% Information

Public Hearings To Open August 8

WASHINGTON, July 31 (INS) — Sen. Mundt (R) S. D., said today that Maj. Gen. Harry Vaughan is being asked to furnish Senate members with "all knowledge" he may have about "five percent" influence peddlers in Washington.

Mundt is a member of the Senate Investigations Committee, of which Sen. Hoey (D) N. C., is chairman.

The Senate group is scheduled to begin open hearings into the activities of the "five percenters" on August 8, with John Maragon, reputed White House intimate, expected to be the first witness.

A "five percent" is an individual who uses his influence with federal officials to obtain government contracts for clients for a fee.

Mundt declared that Hoey "either now is writing or already has sent a letter" to Vaughan, President Truman's military aide and a friend of Maragon, Mundt said.

"Personally, I do not care whether Vaughan sends us the data we want or comes down here and testifies personally."

"The main thing is that the committee gets all the information the General may have."

Vaughan came under fire in the investigation when he reportedly said recently that he knew "at least 300 five percenters" operating in Washington.

At his last news conference, the President, flanked by Vaughan, declared to reporters that he was willing for his military aide to take the stand at any time before the Senate probers.

Meanwhile, a committee source has disclosed that Maragon will be questioned as to whether he had deposits totalling $40,000 in a Texas bank.

Johnson Backs Air West Point

WASHINGTON, July 31 (AP) — Secretary of Defense Johnson today threw strong support behind the idea of an Air Force "West Point" and early Congressional hearings are indicated.

Johnson urged establishment of a third service academy in a letter to Chairman Vinson (D-Ga.) of the House Armed Services Committee. He submitted with it a proposed bill to create the new school.

"I always have favored an air academy," Vinson told reporters, "and I will support the legislation."

More than a dozen bills along this line already have been introduced this year, most of them naming specific sites for the school. Johnson's bill does not pick a site, but Air Secretary Symington has told Congressional Committees he believes the academy should be at Randolph Field, Texas.

Vinson said he will introduce the new bill tomorrow, and try to arrange for early committee hearings on it. House action is not likely before next year, however.

In his letter, Johnson said no accurate estimate of costs can be made until a location is picked. He said present estimates put the figure at approximately $171,000,000, and the annual operating cost at about $5,000,000.

"The air force, like the Army and Navy," Johnson wrote Vinson, "has a definite requirement for a system of officer procurement that will provide an adequate and continuous flow of college-educated, uniformly trained young men possessing the desired character and personal attributes."

Lightning Hits Park; 2 Killed, 50 Are Injured

BAKER, Fla., July 31 (AP) — Lightning struck a baseball diamond this afternoon, killing two persons and injuring 50.

A crowd of 300 was thrown into panic.

Gordon Walther, a leftfielder for the Baker Baseball Team, said a ditch about 200 feet long was cut by the bolt.

The baseball game was just starting when the bolt struck. Walther was among the players running to positions.

The Baker team was to play the Munson, Fla., club.

British Sloop, Amethyst, Rests In China Sea

HONG KONG, July 31 (AP) — The British sloop Amethyst, which burst from Chinese communist captivity in the Yangtze River last night, was reported sheltering today in the East China Sea about 70 miles off communist-held Shanghai.

A British Navy spokesman said she would refuel at her anchorage in the Saddle Islands, off the Yangtze mouth, from a tanker sent from Japan with three destroyers as escort.

Then she will start the 1,000-mile voyage to Hong Kong and is expected here Wednesday or Thursday, the spokesman said. The cruiser-er Jamaica steamed out today to meet her en route.

The British were frankly jubilant over gaining an advantage in the "Amethyst affair," which started last April 20 with a confused battle in the Yangtze between the Amethyst and three other British warships and the communists ashore.

"The admiralty in London announced King George VI had radiated a Royal order for the Amethyst's crew to 'splice the mainbrace' — serve an extra ration of rum to all hands — in celebration."

(An admiralty spokesman, replying to questions, said the navy anticipated no trouble on the voyage to Hong Kong from Chinese nationalist warships reported blockading the Yangtze mouth. He pointed out the Saddle Islands are well out of the river and said at least four British destroyers are near enough to the Amethyst to protect her.)

Revised Foreign Aid Bill Faces Further Battle

Restrictive Riders Contentious Points

WASHINGTON, July 31 (AP) — The Senate today moved warily toward another fierce quarrel over foreign aid — a principal dispute in the historic jam-up of nearly $300,000,000 in appropriations.

The Appropriations Committee brought forth a revised bill for European Recovery and other foreign spending. It was changed to meet objections that committee amendments contained legislation — something that appropriations aren't supposed to contain.

But one of the main arguments was over amendments themselves and Democratic Leader Lucas of Illinois told a reporter he will try to strip from the bill riders restrictive to the Economic Cooperation Administration, which administered the recovery program.

Controversy has stirred about a scheme by Senator McClellan (D-Ark.) to earmark $1,800,000,000 for buying surplus United States farm products, and a proposal to tie up $50,000,000 for a loan to Spain.

Chairman McKellar (D-Tenn.) of the committee said he thought the form of the bill could not be challenged this time.

The bill, calling for more than $5,500,000,000 appropriations mostly to administer the Marshall Plan, is one of the big money measures which should have been passed before the fiscal year began July 1.

Congress has resorted to stop-gap emergency measures to permit the government to operate while the appropriations are tied up. The House long ago cleared all the money bills but the Senate has run into one legislative jam after another.

Senator Kenn (R-Mo.) promised another Senate battle over his attempt to bar aid funds for any country that nationalizes or socializes any major industry after passage of the aid bill.

Aimed chiefly at the program of the British Labor Government for state control and ownership of major industries, the Kenn "anti-socialism" rider lost by one vote in the Senate committee.

Jenner Urges Anti-Truman Plan For GOP

Jenner Urges Anti-Truman Plan For GOP

Party Committee Meets Thursday To Pick Chairman

By JACK BELL
WASHINGTON, July 31 (AP) — The Republican Party was urged by Senator Jenner (R-Ind.) today to draft a vigorous anti-Truman program in a bid for votes of those who are "tired of 'me-tooism,' bipartisanship and internationalism."

Jenner said the Republican National Committee, meeting here Thursday to pick a new chairman, ought to draft a statement of party principles condemning the "dogood, patronage boosting, internationally-minded, socialistic government of the past 16 years."

Sees Oppertune Time
"The Republican Party now has an opportunity to present to the people a strong program of opposition to the present administration's wobbly foreign policy," to the Jekyll and Hyde agriculture policy, by President Truman and the Pendergast satellites who surround him," the Indiana Senator said in a statement.

There was ample evidence, however, that Jenner's proposal that the committee draft a policy statement is not shared by the majority of Republican leaders in Congress.

Senator Taft of Ohio, chairman of the Senate GOP Policy Committee, has said that any policy statement ought to be delayed until early in 1950. He has added that it should be drafted primarily by members of Congress and not by the national committee.

Neither do Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.) and others of like views subscribe fully to Jenner's criticism of the international policies of the Truman administration, which they have helped shape.

Jenner said nobody cares much who is elected national chairman to succeed Rep. Hugh D. Scott, Jr., who has said he will hand his resignation to the committee at the Thursday session.

Interest Is In Policy
"The average voter has a minimum of interest in who will be named Republican national chairman," Jenner said, "but he is vitally interested in whether the Republican Party is to be a vehicle through which he can register his opposition to the bungling, spendthrift manner in which the affairs of his government have been administered since March 4, 1933."

Guy George Gabrielson, New Jersey national committeeman, appears to be the leading candidate to succeed Scott.

Friends still are pushing the candidacy of A. T. (Bert) Howard, Nebraska state chairman, but Howard is not generally credited with widespread support.

Lane Orders Md. Budgets Trimmed

ANNAPOLIS, Md., July 31 (AP) — Heads of all state departments have been told by Governor Lane to trim their budgets so that the state may save $500,000 this fiscal year during a period of "falling prices."

In letters to the department heads, the Governor said economies are important for this reason:

"For months past we have been in a mild recession, accompanied by falling prices and increasing unemployment, and a decline in tax revenue should be anticipated."

Lane made an exception of state hospitals, but he asked them to keep down their operating expenses.

However, he advised other departments to "control expenditures on a predetermined schedule," which averages two per cent of their budgets for the fiscal year ending next June 30.

During the past two fiscal years, across-the-board cuts of two per cent were made in department budgets. The economies were ordered by the Board of Public Works after a resolution of the 1947 General Assembly asked annual savings of $500,000.

A State House spokesman said 70 agencies operating on general funds were told to cut costs in amounts ranging from $115,000 for the University of Maryland to $40 for the Commission on Uniform State Laws.

The order omitted special fund agencies, since their money is earmarked and does not show up in general treasury revenues.

Lane also notified department heads they can no longer transfer salary funds to other items, except in extreme cases. They were permitted this practice in the past two years because prices rose after their appropriations for operating expenses were set.

Pact Defense Makeup Split Into 2 Camps

Both Will Need U. S. Money, Aid

By HAROLD K. MILKS
LONDON, July 31 (AP) — The U. S. joint chiefs of staff will hear of two distinct plans for Western European defense during their London visit this week. Both involve the use of American dollars for arms and equipment.

One group of military leaders will tell the American visitors that only a large army — containing up to the 1,500,000 combat troops mentioned in Washington debate on the arms fund — can prevent Soviet aggression if the Russians substitute military for political pressure.

Another group will be equally positive that a better and cheaper answer is a small, mobile, but superbly trained and equipped force of about twenty divisions — perhaps 250,000 men — backed by enough warplanes to guarantee control of the air.

The final decision, London experts believe, will be a compromise.

European partners in the Atlantic Pact already have, at least on paper, more than 2,000,000 men in all their armed forces.

But they lack stores of modern arms and equipment. They hope United States aid will fill that need.

An Associated Press survey of Atlantic Pact members in Europe shows they have ample manpower for execution of either program. But there is a wide gap between available men and the 1,500,000 "combat troops" which Washington experts have said should be armed.

The maintenance of men and equipment in peacetime costs money. European military budgets have been trimmed and trimmed again to meet pressing economic and reconstruction needs.

McGrath Accused In Farm Program

WASHINGTON, July 31 (AP) — Senator Aiken (R-Vt.), today accused Democratic National Committee Chairman McGrath of trying to push a dispute over federal farm programs "into the mire of partisan politics."

The Republican Senator is top-ranking GOP member of a bipartisan Senate group now trying to draft a compromise 1950 farm program that Congress will agree upon at this session.

Aiken was irritated by comments of McGrath, Senator from Rhode Island in "Capital Comment" issued by the Democratic National Committee.

McGrath contended recent House passage of a farm bill to continue present high-level government price supports another year "was a partial victory for the administration and a complete defeat for the Republicans."

McGrath said the House bill, which appears to have little chance of Senate passage, was a return "to the old Democratic farm programs" and a "year's extension of the present Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938."

Although the House threw out the Republican Aiken flexible price support plan which was voted last year to take effect in 1950, it also flatly rejected the new Democratic plan sponsored by Secretary of Agriculture Brannan.

Brannan proposed to let perishable farm products find their own market levels while farmers collected subsidy payments if necessary to maintain their incomes. Instead the House asked another year of price supports used during and since the war.

Aiken told a reporter that McGrath's comment was another "deliberate attempt to make a political football out of our farm problems."

U. S. Consulate Administrator Held Prisoner By Chinese Mobs

SHANGHAI, July 31 (AP) — Reuben Thomas, U. S. Consulate administrative officer, has been held in a room of the consulate for more than 20 hours without sleep by 100-odd former local employees of the U. S. Navy.

Claiming severance pay and bonuses of six and one-half months' wages, the former employees — Chinese, some Indians and White Russians — swarmed into the consulate-general building on the Shanghai Bund July 29.

They later permitted most consulate members to come and go freely, but have confined Thomas, Walter McConaughy, acting consul-general, and Cmdr. Morgan Slayton, Naval attaché.

At 3 p. m. Saturday, Thomas, who had conducted previous negotiations on this dispute over a period of three weeks, entered a room on the first floor of the six-story building

Assurance Of Co-Operation Is Requested

Would Include Iron-Clad Plan In Arms Program

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST
WASHINGTON, July 31 (AP) — Some House Republicans demanded iron-clad guarantees of co-ordinated military action today in exchange for qualified support of President Truman's Arms for Europe Program.

Unless such assurances are forthcoming, they indicated, they won't even support a partial program to arm Atlantic Pact and other friendly nations.

By coordinated military action, Rep. Vorys (R-Ohio) explained, he and others concerned about the program mean that there must be assurance that in the event of war the nations receiving military aid will pull together as a team.

Will Resume Hearings
Vorys is a high-ranking member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee which is considering the $1,450,000,000 program. It will resume hearings tomorrow with testimony from former Secretary of State George Marshall and Roving Ambassador W. Averell Harriman.

Vorys is advocating a stop-gap program of about half the amount proposed by the President.

As it stands, the proposal would provide arms for Western Europe and a number of other noncommunist nations. The President would be empowered to switch the flow if conditions changed. The bulk of the arms would be delivered over a two-year period with the intention of discouraging any Russian ideas of over-running Europe.

It has run into a barrage of questions in the House Committee about the extent of cooperation to be expected among the European beneficiaries.

A principal contention is that the present plan should be limited in view of the Atlantic Treaty provision for establishment of a 12-nation council which will set up a committee to work out an overall defense plan based on mutual aid.

Suggest Halving Funds
Influential members of Congress are reported to have suggested that the fund be about halved, held to one year, and specifically fitted into the forthcoming defense plan under the treaty.

They also proposed that the bill be stripped of the provision allowing Mr. Truman to transfer arms to any nation, and specify that the transfers be made to pact members and certain others.

A discussion of a compromise along these lines is known to have taken place in conferences of legislators with Secretary of State Acheson and General George C. Marshall who is actively working for the arms program.

The administration was reported working on a proposal to reduce the extent of the program and it was regarded possible that a Democratic compromise might show up after the hearings.

However, the state department said there has been no compromise and that it is not considering any.

Hospital Asks Court To Dismiss Physician's Suit

Allegany Hospital has asked that the suit against it by Dr. T. Bailey Hunter be dismissed. The hospital filed an answer to the suit Saturday in compliance with a Circuit Court show cause order.

The physician filed a petition June 24 asking the court to restrain the hospital from interfering with treatment of his patients at the hospital.

Dr. Hunter declared that on January 5, 1948, the superintendent of the hospital sent him a letter notifying him that his hospital privileges would not be renewed for 1948.

He added that last April the superintendent forbade him orally to use the hospital facilities for his patients. He said the superintendent refused to give any reason for the order or to grant a hearing before the executive committee.

The hospital's answer, filed by William C. Walsh and Harold E. Naughton, denied that the by-laws and constitution in force at the time provided for a hearing.

The statement admitted the orders disqualifying Dr. Hunter from use of the hospital, adding that appointments to the medical staff are for a year at a time. Absolute authority to deny appointments is used by the governing board on advice of the staff, the answer states.

The statement also said that patients of Dr. Hunter were not denied admission to the hospital but had to be referred to some physician on the staff.

The answer also denied Dr. Hunter's contention that the hospital is a public or quasi-public institution, declaring it is a private institution.

Granting of hospital privileges to a physician by a hospital such as Allegany the statement said, is not a right which any doctor can demand, but is a privilege which the governing body can grant, refuse or withdraw at will.

Solomon Islands Pastor Tells Of Adventist Work

Members of the Cumberland Seventh-Day Adventist Church attending their annual 10-day camp meeting at Catonsville, Md., are enjoying the stories told to them by a Solomon Island "fuzzy-wuzzy" of why hundreds of Allied servicemen shot down in the South Pacific were "feted instead of feasted upon."

Pastor Robert Calau, an ordained Adventist minister of the Island of Vella la Vella, told his Maryland-Delaware audience that the change brought about by Christian missionaries who risked their lives during the last fifty years to teach natives the Ten Commandments and the gospel of Christ.

He described the work of schools, medical clinics and church evangelism that through the years have changed the outlook of thousands of natives in the field he represents. This includes Papua, the British Solomon Islands and New Guinea which has 98 Adventist churches and a membership of 3,300. In the adjacent island groups of Fiji, New Hebrides, Samoa and the smaller islands areas, 103 Adventist churches are organized with a membership of more than 2,000, the conference was told.

Salau estimates that he has personally converted to Christianity more than 2,000 islanders, including his father, a head hunter who had

Fourth Week Of Y Day Camp Ends

The fourth week of the Central YMCA day camp was highlighted by a visit to the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company and a day-long outing at Constitution Park.

Dale Darrow and John Steele were tent leaders for the 18 boys in the two tent groups. Steele's tent won all softball and kickball games and Robert Zarger of Darrow's tent led in archery with 18 points.

Jack DeRosa won the senior shuffleboard division championship from John Chisholm and Hugh Steele defeated Gary Smith in the junior division. Frank Santelli won over Gerald Arthur in the senior division ping pong tournament and Jerry McGreevy won in the junior division in a match with Gary Smith.

Santelli had the most points in a senior division track and field meet, while Steele won in the junior division.

The fifth week of the camp will start tomorrow morning.

When later the missionaries started a school, the lad ran away from home to attend it and was sent from there some years later as a missionary to his own people.

Salau is making a world-tour under the sponsorship of the General Conference of Seventh-Day Adventists, Washington, D. C. He is being accompanied by Pastor and Mrs. A. G. Stewart, veterans of 42 years' missionary work in the South Pacific. He is scheduled to speak again at the camp grounds at Catonsville and will continue his three months' tour of the States by visiting other Adventist camp meetings.

Six Men Jailed In Street Fights

Six men were jailed and two treated at local hospitals for head wounds after three fights in downtown Cumberland Saturday night.

James Earson, North Mechanic Street, and John Plier, Pittsburgh, posted $20 bond each for disorderly conduct charges after a fight on Baltimore Street at 9:15 p. m., and were arrested 10 minutes later after another dispute. The second time they were held for questioning today by the State's Attorney.

Assistant Chief B. F. Gaffney said the two men left the station house separately after being booked in the first fight. A few minutes later police were notified they were "at it again" on North Liberty Street.

Sgt. Frank A. Shober brought both men back to the station. Plier had a head injury allegedly inflicted by Earson with a weapon resembling a police billy club.

Francis Davis, 432 North Centre Street, was held as a witness. Plier was treated at Memorial Hospital for treatment of a wound on the right side of the head before being jailed. Earson sustained a bruised mouth during the first fight. Police were forced to clear the main room at headquarters when nearly a hundred persons crowded in to watch the proceedings.

In another fight, Clifford McGettigan, 236 Bond Street, Charles McDonough, 114 Lennox Place, and "Dan" Tucker, 218 Columbia Street, were jailed on drunk and disorderly conduct charges.

Officer John G. Powers said Tucker was knocked down in a scuffle and sustained a cut on the head. At Allegany Hospital, where several sutures were used to close the wound, Tucker gave his name as Dan Crawford.

Police Busy On Auto Cases

Raymond J. Hensell, 21, Corriganville, was fined $21.45 Saturday in Trial Magistrates Court on a charge of reckless driving after his car struck the rear of a machine driven by Lester Glover, Winchester, Va., at Bedford Street and Henderson Avenue last Monday morning.

City police arrested Hensell after his car struck the Glover vehicle, which had stopped for a stop sign. Three auto shops took place in Cumberland Saturday.

A car driven by Daphne M. Smith, 27, Washington, struck an Emory Bus operated by Thomas Geary, 461 Goethe Street, at the Dingle Entrance on Greene Street Saturday afternoon.

Lt. Edwin R. Lilya said the Washington vehicle failed to make the turn at the Dingle entrance after a heavy rain made the street slippery. The front end of the car was demolished but damage to the bus was slight. No charges were preferred.

In another accident, William Myers, Baltimore, posted $11.90 bond for a Trial Magistrates hearing today on charges of reckless driving and driving without a license in an accident at Ford Avenue and Roberts Street at 8:30 p. m. Saturday.

Officers J. Carl Stouffer and J. E. Brown, said Myers' car struck the car of Elmer Ray Piffle, Potomac Park. Damage totaled $150.

David W. Summerfield, 17, Rawlings, and Alex Densock, 51, Cresaptown, posted $5 bond each for a hearing in Police Court this morning on careless driving charges after the Summerfield car was struck on Williams Street by the Densock vehicle.

Lilya said the accident occurred about 10 feet from the curb while Summerfield was parking. The left front bumper of the Summerfield car and the right rear fender of the Densock machine were damaged.

Ruth Pufka, Altoona, Pa., forfeited $5 bond Friday night when she failed to appear at a hearing in Police Court on a careless driving charge preferred after she was arrested on Bedford Street.

Police Search For Armed Robber

City police are searching for an armed bandit who held up and robbed the Spur Gas Station at about 6:25 a. m. Saturday.

C. L. Long, 435 Winow Street, an employee at the station, said a blond man about 32 years old, weighing about 180 pounds and wearing a maroon shirt and hat and sunglasses held him up with a .22 calibre pistol.

Long said he was forced to surrender $45 in the cash register to the bandit.

Check Passer Identified

A man arrested in Wellsville, O., on a bad check charge, has been identified as the same man who passed a bogus check for $25 at a local restaurant two weeks ago under the name of Dr. Frank J. Burton, Jr.

Wellsville authorities said Burton, described as "a mental case," has been re-admitted to Weston State Hospital at Weston, W. Va. City police said they have closed the case.

Originally the residence at which the Scots Royal family stayed when in London, Scotland Yard was next headquarters of the Metropolitan police from 1829 to 1890. The police headquarters were then moved to new buildings on the Thames embankment, now known as New Scotland Yard.

Lumber Strike Talks To Be Resumed

The Tri-State Lumbermen's Association will resume negotiations at Uniontown, Pa., tomorrow with the striking Timbermen's Union after a three-hour talk Saturday failed to end the 49-day walkout.

The lumbermen's group will meet again tonight.

Timber workers in Western Pennsylvania, Maryland and Northern West Virginia struck June 12 in protest against a pay cut. The lumbermen claimed the cut was necessary due to a drop in the price of timber.

Along Our Street

with Aunt Penny

The idea of "self-service" seems to be the coming thing. One of the most popular eating-places in town is a new cafeteria that just opened here. I had lunch there the other day and was amazed how many people were served in the short time I was there.

It reminded me of another kind of service most of us use today - party-line telephone service. I was talking with Cy Stubbs, who works for the telephone company, and he told me if it weren't for party lines, thousands of folks would still be waiting for telephone service. He said that party lines mean more service for more people sooner. That's one reason why it's so important that folks continue to use their party lines "sharingly."

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD

By Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, July 31 — (INS) — Just as soon as it can be put in readiness, "Julius Caesar," one of Shakespeare's most out and out melodramas, will be filmed by MGM. Dore Schary, who took off for Lake Arrowhead with his wife and children for a vacation on Saturday, made plans for this picture before he left for the lake.

One of MGM's biggest movies, "Julius Caesar," calls for exciting melodrama and tremendous sets. James Mason will be invited to play Brutus. There is no one even suggested for the role of Marc Antony. Remember Antony's immortal oration: "We have come to bury Caesar, not to praise him!" I am confident Shakespeare can be sold by the movies. "Hamlet" was popular — so was "Romeo and Juliet," with Norma Shearer a few years ago.

David Wark Griffith's lonely grave in Crestwood, Kentucky, will no longer be neglected. At least his heirs have given the screen directors permission to let the flowers D. W. so loved bloom there.

At a recent meeting attended by many important members, among them Al Rosell, president, John Farrow, Sam Wood and Clarence Brown, a resolution was passed to build a monument, and to see to it that the grave receives perpetual care.

Extra! extra! Believe it or not — Lloyd T. Binford, the toughest censor in the country, who has kept many fine pictures out of Memphis, Tennessee, has passed "Home of the Brave."

The controversial picture, based on racial prejudice opens in Memphis August 11 with an official "OK" from Binford.

Wanda Hendrix told me that Audie Murphy fights the war in his sleep constantly. That, complicated with two bad ulcers, has given an unfortunate start to their marriage, for Audie hasn't been well for a long time.

"I am underweight, too," Wanda told me. "Audie will go to Texas for a while to attend to some business and I am going to try to join him there."

These two kids have really had all the bad breaks in the book. They both had flu, which delayed their honeymoon. Audie has been sick, off and on, since they were married. Here is hoping they'll weather the storm.

In two weeks Ingrid Bergman will have finished "Stromboli." She and the company, including, of course, her director, Rossellini, spend only two days in Rome, going from there to a concentration camp where the final scenes will be shot.

Ingrid wrote to the people who are caring for little Pia that she thought this was her best picture.

While I was on the MGM lot doing a tour of all the stages, I learned that Eleanor Powell will sign a contract this week to dance in "The Duchess of Idaho," Joe Pasternak's picture.

Joe is confident that she will accept his offer. It will be interesting if Eleanor returned to the studio of her former triumphs.

Dorothy MacKail looks just wonderful. I wonder why some smart producer doesn't grab her off quickly, she's such a good actress.

Dorothy hadn't thought a thing about making a picture until Sam Goldwyn told her he was interested in casting her in "Beloved Over All." But when he saw her tests he felt she looked too young for the role.

But producers are silly if they don't grab Dottie.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Cary Grant, who has been in Johns Hopkins Hospital for a diagnosis by Dr. Charles Austrian, leaves Wednesday for home.

Errol Flynn and his constant companion, Princess Ghika, plus John Perona of El Morocco, are at Cap d'Antibes.

Irene Rich, who slipped quietly into town, at the Brown Derby lunching with her manager.

Kathryn Grayson has dyed her hair a honey blonde and will remain that way for the duration of her next picture.

The Alan Ladd today gave the wedding for Jean Lovely, who was Alan's secretary for more than two years, and Verne Carstensen, production manager of Mayfair Transcriptions Company.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Orchids usually reach the blooming stage in 10 or 12 years.

Tranquil mind and immaculate appearance will help conquer the hottest day!

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

WHEW! It's a scorcher! As I write this, almost everybody looks hot, tired and wilted. Right now is when looking your best counts the most! Maintaining your immaculate appearance when the going is tough certainly reflects to your credit.

Extra Effort. It's a simple enough matter to be well-groomed when all the elements are on your side—but it takes extra effort when they're against it. It's worth the doing — for what it's worth for you and those around you. As a woman you're a pre-ordained appointment as morale officer of your home—and if you're a careerist—your home AND office. You must look the part to play it convincingly.

Analyze your role. See what makes the character tick in this situation. You'll find your own attitude most important. You're not going to let a little thing like a hot day get you down to the place where you're no good to yourself or anybody else.

No sir! You are a fighter and you're going to find the means of combating this present threat to your usually poised personality.

Biggest Problem. You've already made a good beginning. Now, how about your hair? If it is long, does it hang in wispy stragglers? Or, if it is short, does it cling damply to your head?

Either way, you can do something about it—NOW. This is one time in your life that brushing won't do you any good. Instead, comb your hair in sectional parts and rub your scalp gently with a clean, absorbent towel. Then dip your comb in a delicate eau de cologne and run it lightly

Locking Door After The Horse Is Stolen

The United States is reported to be forming a new China policy. It is not a policy aimed at saving China from the Communists. The time for that action is past. The horse is gone. It is, rather, recognition of a fait accompli and a determination of what comes next.

Secretary Acheson is said to have assigned a group of experts to study the Chinese situation and lay the foundation for a new policy. One purpose will be to decide what to do if the Communists succeed in conquering most of China and set up a government. We will then be faced with the problem of recognition and of trade relations. Likewise the question arises as to whether this nation should continue to support any resistance to Communist progress.

The plain fact is that our efforts to stop Communist aggression in China have been so feeble as to be useless. Thanks to a State Department policy that naively maintained Chinese Communists were different from other Communists, we have allowed China to be engulfed by the Red Morass. Today the Communists are sweeping into South China. The story might have been different had the United States lent strong support to Chiang Kai-shek and his nationalist armies when they really needed it.

The Administration and the State Department continue to look to Europe in the battle against Communism. The Marshall Plan, the Atlantic Pact, and now the proposed military aid program, all are aimed to checkmate Moscow in the west. The scheme is succeeding. But at the same time Communist armies, sparked by Moscow, and Communist infiltrators, owing allegiance to Moscow, are making frightening progress in Asia. China's head is sinking below the surface and the boat that contains Indo-China, Malaya and Indonesia is leaking badly. Urgent action is needed if we are to salvage what is left of democracy on the Asiatic continent.

The Vocation, Or The Avocation Of Pole Sitting

Pole sitting, or its parallel, perching on a high place, is a vocation, or an avocation, depending on how you look at it. In the past people have sympathized with the motives of pole sitters in certain situations. The cause of a young woman in New England who mounted a pole to draw attention to her failure to get adequate housing provokes a sympathetic tremor, for instance.

But as for the man who's going to stay aloft until his favorite baseball team climbs to pennant position, or the nut who ornamented the top of a Midwest water tower for a day and a night—uh uh.

In fairness to these people, it is worth looking into the driving force that makes them do as they do. In some cases you can guess the motivation with a fair degree of accuracy, but with others you are left shaking your head.

A case reported a few days ago is fairly clear cut. The percher is one Giovanni Lomanitz, a young scientist who worked on the atom project at Berkeley, California, in 1940. He has been accused by the House un-American Activities Committee of being the principal Communist Party organizer at Berkeley. Evidently the accusation hit home, for Lomanitz promptly shinned up a 110-foot water tower in Oklahoma to avoid newsmen.

If the increasing tribe of those who have been tapped by the long arm of the committee decide to resort to the same kind of escapism, every airy perch over 50 feet in the air will have standing room only. This will leave little room for perchers who decide to do their sitting for purely personal reasons.

Three-Man Pajama Problem In Red-Ink Economics

If three men have one pair of pajamas, how many pairs of pajamas does each one have? That is no problem in elementary fractions, for who ever wore one-third of a pajama? But it is a problem in red-ink economics for the pajama manufacturers, who report that in 1948 per capita pajama sales to men sank to their lowest level since the nightshirt went into eclipse. What to do, what to do?

It is difficult to offer any helpful advice. The flight from the pajama is merely one aspect of the masculine revolt against wearing more clothes than necessary for health, comfort, and decency—a revolt that threatens, to the dismay of haberdashers, to leave summer-time men hatless, coatless, shirt-sleeved and ungartered.

Industry is fighting back. One hatmaker is trying to popularize the slogan: "No man is dressed without a hat." Pajama-makers, to get back at them, have tried creating nocturnal garments of rich oriental hues and designs that give the repressed and soberly attired male the chance to strut in color all over, not just in neckties and socks. It's a good idea, for cold weather, and deserves a better fate than seems to be overtaking it.

For the present, however, most men have little urge to dress up to go to bed, be the colors hot or cool. What one wears in the privacy of his bedroom is his own business, and everybody knows that business is slack in Summer. Anybody who wants it can have his third of a pajama.

Outer garments are another matter. They meet the public eye and therefore involve questions of decency. But a glance at the next woman you meet on the street is enough to show that men can still take off quite a bit more and stay within bounds. Right now, if most men could get away with it, they could manage quite nicely in one-third of a shirt.

Sure Cure

Several Hollywood movie stars have just returned from Europe where they were engaged in making a series of films. Without exception they declared that, after suffering the inconveniences of life, work and travel abroad, they were tickled pink to be home again. Maybe there is a hint here of the way to treat those other Hollywood people who are constantly beating the drums for the Soviet Union. Send them a dose of living under the communist system. It's a hundred to one that they will not be fellow-travelers when they get back.

A southern prison lists a contortionist among its inmates. Maybe he'll go straight when he gets out.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

New Remedies In Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever

IT WAS welcome news to read several months ago that the newer antibiotics, aureomycin and chloromycetin, are of value in treating Rocky mountain spotted fever. Up until this time, the disease was a menace and threat to any one traveling in regions where it abounds. Furthermore, in some sections, five per cent of the victims died whereas in other localities the mortality rate exceeded 80 per cent.

Rocky mountain spotted fever is somewhat of a misnomer. It is possible that this regional name would not have been selected had the public health authorities of decades ago realized that the malady was not confined to the western states. The original outbreaks occurred in the Bitter root valley in Montana and Snake river valley of Idaho. Meanwhile, however, the condition has been noted in 26 other states including the Atlantic seaboard from New York to Georgia. Epidemics have appeared also in Africa and South America.

The disease is transmitted to man from infected animals via the bite of a tick. In the western states, wood ticks harbor the causative organisms, which are found upon such animals as squirrels, chipmunks, prairie dogs, and badgers. In the east, dog ticks are the vectors; they feed upon the infected animal as part of their life cycle and theoretically are not supposed to bother man. But they do and it has been estimated that there are not less than 750 cases annually in the western area, and 200 in the eastern.

The illness has an abrupt onset, beginning three to ten days after the tick has done its dirty work. The victim suddenly develops chills, fever, and marked aching, especially of the arms and legs. The temperature usually rises and remains so for two or three weeks before subsiding gradually. In severe cases, the individual is critically ill and utterly exhausted; in the past, a high percentage failed to make the grade.

At some time during the second to sixth day, a rash somewhat akin to the eruption of measles makes its appearance on the extremities and spreads to the remainder of the body. The lesions darken in time and in some instances, black and blue marks, due to hemorrhages beneath the skin, become visible. Convalescence often is prolonged.

Since the ailment resembles so many other conditions, diagnosis is difficult without the aid of blood studies. The exception is the presence of epidemics or symptoms in natives of areas where it is more or less prevalent routinely.

Before the advent of aureomycin and chloromycetin, little could be done except for good nursing care. Medicines were powerless until a few years ago, when Para-aminobenzoic acid (PABA) came into being. This drug was somewhat helpful but probably will be superseded by the new wonder drugs. A preventive vaccine is available, which is still being recommended for those who plan to visit infested areas. Further precautions include the wearing of high boots and utilizing insect repellents.

MISHAP TO BABY TEETH

Mrs. F. writes: If a child breaks off one of her front teeth in a fall, is it replaced with a false one?

Reply: Not necessarily, unless the parents feel so inclined. Ultimately, the space will be filled by the permanent tooth.

NOT USUALLY

N. L. writes: Is acne contagious?

Reply: No, except perhaps to the victim.

TONGUE MARKS

E. B. writes: My tongue is covered with tiny cracks and down the middle, almost its full length, the crack is jagged, deep and wide. What is the name of this condition?

Reply: In no particular type. The drug in no compensation, dropsy, etc.) or if certain irregularities develop.

CONSTRUCTED BLOOD VESSEL

P. T. writes: What is a vascular spasm?

Reply: The muscles in the walls of the blood vessels are circular and when they contract (go into spasm) the whole vessel shrinks in size. Because the inside is narrowed, the flow of blood is curtailed. Symptoms vary, depending upon the location of the artery or vein, and the part of the organ affected by lack of blood.

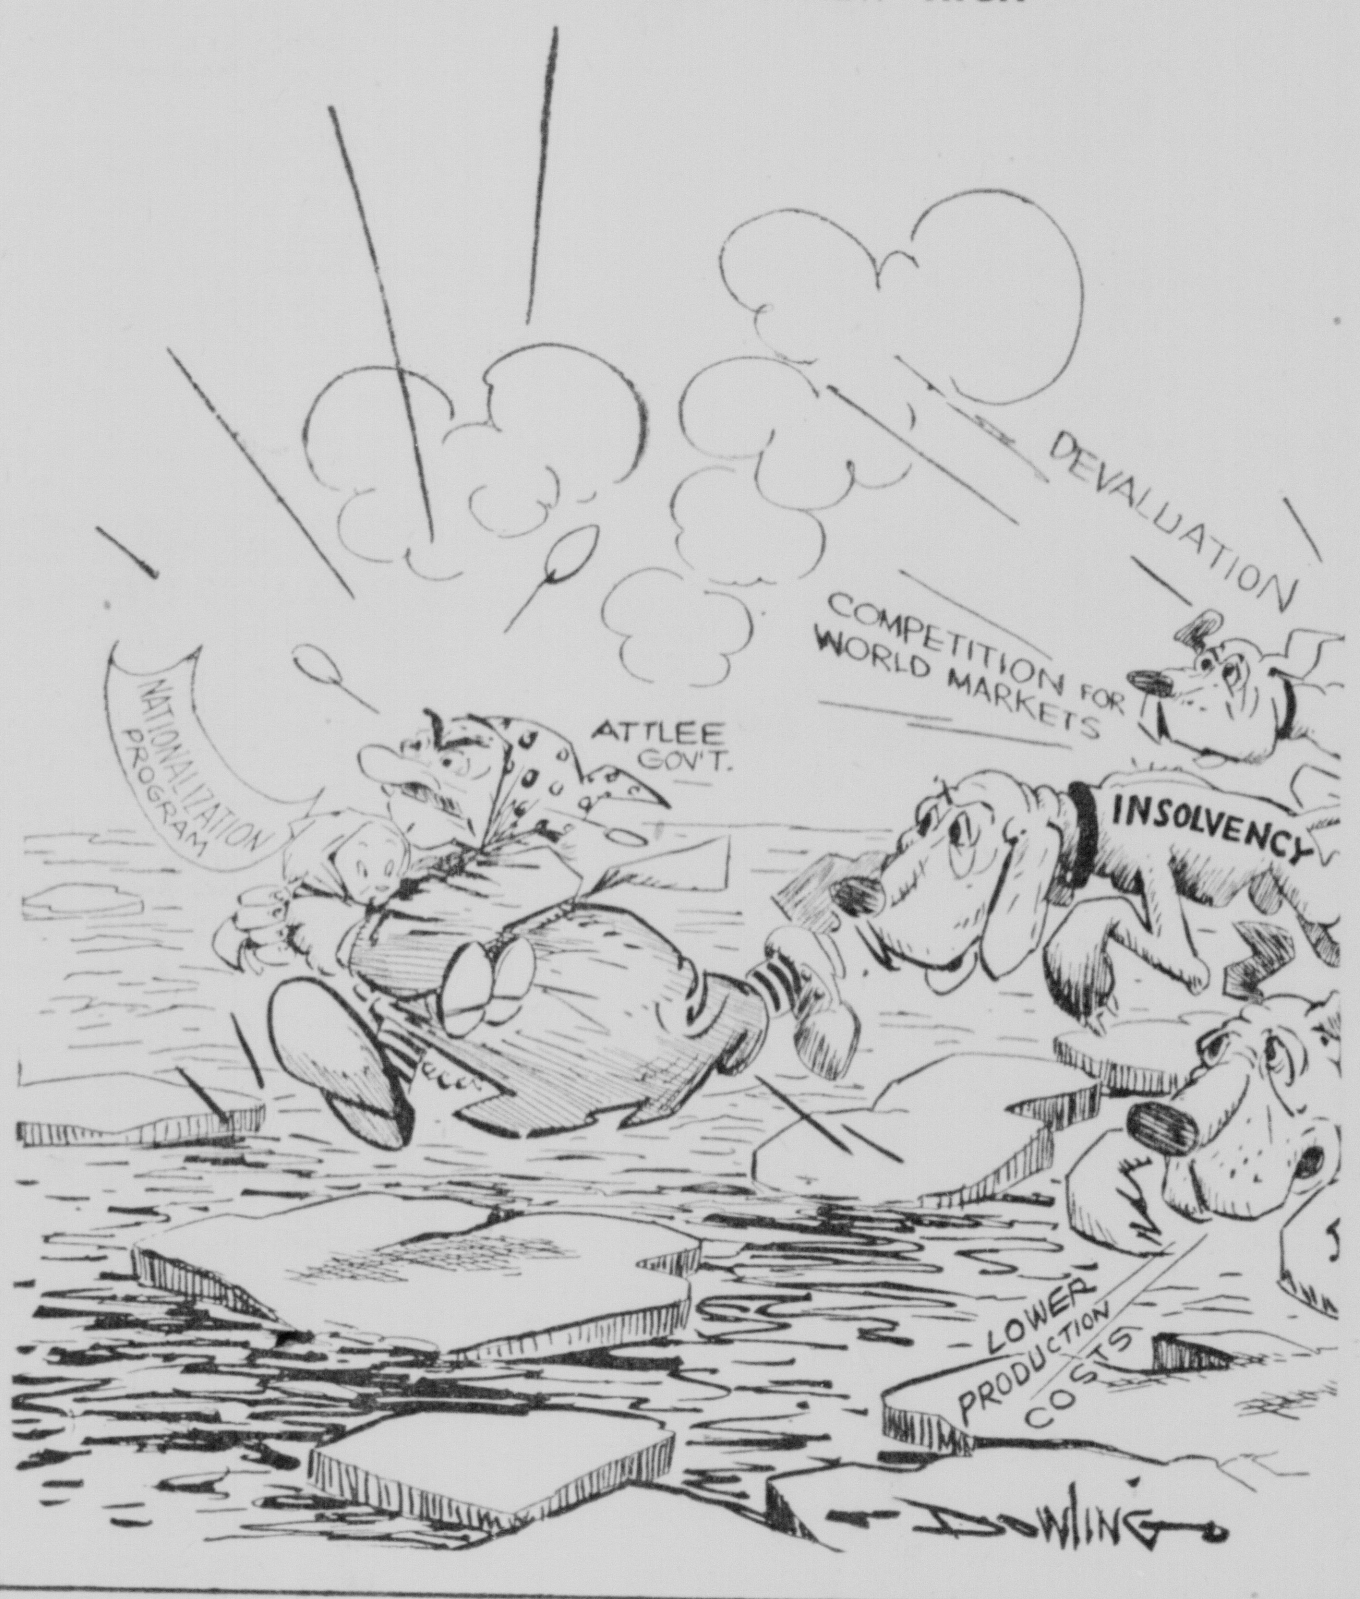

Meningitis

M. A. writes: Does tonsillitis precede the occurrence of meningitis?

Reply: Not necessarily, but it can occur. But tonsils are not a prerequisite; many victims of meningitis have had these organs removed earlier.

DRAMA REACHES A NEW HIGH

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

GOP Factions Still Rowing Over Chairman; General Waitt Got General Vaughn And Lobbyist Hunt To Work For His Promotion

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, July 31—All is not harmony inside the Republican National Committee as it nears the job of picking a new chairman. It was hoped that when Pennsylvania's Hugh Scott, a Dewey man, resigned, diverse G. O. P. factions would bury the hatchet and pull together. But they haven't.

Today, there is just about as much inside dissension as there was over controversial Hugh Scott.

This time the feuding is over the top candidate for the chairmanship—Guy Gabrielson of Bernardsville, N. J., national committee-man from New Jersey.

Last week the chairmanship appeared to be all set for Gabrielson. Since then, sudden and stiff opposition has developed. For one thing, it is strongly suspected that he is a Stassen man. Even more important, Republican congressmen from New Jersey are almost soundly opposed. En bloc they called on ex-Speaker Joe Martin, and registered their objection. Usually it's an honor to have a national chairman selected from your state, but in this case New Jersey congressmen wanted to forego the honor — if Gabrielson is to be the man.

Another gripe against Gabrielson is the fact that he is from the East, and that Scott's resignation was forced because a mid-westerner was needed as chairman. Gabrielson was born in Sioux Rapids, Ia., but has lived in New Jersey for some time.

Kansas' Darby Is Favorite

Another complaint is that at the last Omaha meeting of the G. O. P., Mrs. Reeve Schley of New Jersey, whose husband is vice president of the Chase National Bank, wanted to be on the executive committee in place of Mrs. Worthington Scrantom of Scranton, Pa. Accordingly Mrs. Scranton was persuaded to resign in favor of Mrs. Schley, following which Gabrielson did not pass this choice plum to Mrs. Schley but usurped it for himself. This made many people sore.

Meanwhile, a lot of wires are being pulled to put Gabrielson across. His chief backers are Texas Committee-man Rentrö Creager, Arizona's novelist Clarence Buddington Kelland, Harrison Spangler of Iowa, Senator Brewster of Maine, and Sam Pryor, former committee-man from Connecticut and vice president of Pan American Airways.

Pryor has even secured the help of a public-relations firm, Andrew Gahagen of 270 Park Avenue, New York, to put Gabrielson across, and one of its representatives, Lee McCann, has been in Washington buttonholing the boys.

Note—Top candidate for the G. O. P. chairmanship if Gabrielson doesn't make it is Harry Darby, G. O. P. committee-man from Kansas, who is chairman of the Kansas City Airways and of the Kansas Palamino Horse Exhibitors Association. Darby is acceptable to Dewey and most other factions but doesn't seem to want the job.

John Foster Dulles' New Job

It may or may not have been significant, but John Foster Dulles, the famed New Senator from New York, has been appointed to the Senate committee governing the District of Columbia. In voteless Washington this means that he will have a great deal to say about governing Washington—including its public utilities.

Significantly, it happens that the Dulles law firm, Sullivan and Cromwell, is attorney for the Washington Gas Light Company, also for the Potomac Electric Company, also for the Washington RR and Transit Co., which owns the Capital Transit Co.

At the time when Senator Dulles was appointed to the district of Columbia committee, these utilities are asking for rate increases, while the Washington Railway and Electric Co. proposes the sale of its 44 per cent interest in the Capital Transit Co. to outside interests.

In fairness to Senator Dulles, it should be noted that he wanted appointment to the Foreign Relations Committee. When no opening developed, Senator Schneppel of Kansas was moved off the District of Columbia Committee, and Dulles took his place. Senator Dulles remarked, incidentally, that he knew nothing about D. C. problems with the exception of the bill to kill the capital's population of starlings. Though he likes birds, he said he did not like starlings.

How a General Wanted Promotion

Here is one inside reason why Gen. Alden Waitt, chief of the Army's Chemical Warfare Section, got suspended for dealing with lobbyist James V. Hunt, close friend of Gen. Harry Vaughan, White House military aide.

General Waitt has been chief of the Chemical Warfare Section for nearly four years, and ordinarily chiefs of army bureaus are not re-appointed. They are transferred to the field. However, Waitt wanted to continue in his lush Washington office in which—after quite a howl—he had just installed a new tile bathroom, kitchenette, air cooling, etc.

So General Waitt, appreciating Lobbyist Hunt's friendship with General Vaughan, and also appreciating General Vaughan's power around the White House, asked Hunt's help in securing his reappointment. Hunt in turn proposed that General Waitt dictate a memorandum which Hunt would then send to General Vaughan.

This General Waitt did, using Hunt's secretary. The memorandum gave a glowing description of Waitt's virtues and achievements; also exposed the faults and failings of other candidates to be chief of chemical warfare.

One interesting point is that General Waitt sat on an Army's evaluation board to pass upon his brother officers and had previously given high recommendations to the very same officers whose qualifications he deprecates in the memorandum which he dictated for Lobbyist Hunt.

Note—When Douglas MacArthur wanted promotion to the rank of major general, he asked his wife's stepfather, the wealthy Edward T. Stotesbury of Philadelphia, to intervene at the White House. Stotesbury, a J. P. Morgan partner, was a heavy G. O. P. campaign contributor.

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK, July 31—(INS)—The London-to-Bermuda-to-New York dollar-running racket is one of the many reasons behind Britain's current headache.

For reasons best known to the Bermudians who did the ordering, the little island was $4,500,000 in arrears the last time U. S. exporters presented a bill. England, which needs every dollar it can lay its hands on, to keep alive its own trade with, had to make up the difference, inasmuch as the American exporters would not accept sterling.

What happened to the missing $4,500,000?

Mr. Attlee's government has sent a treasury official to Bermuda (and perhaps a covey of Scotland Yard men) to put tracers on the flood of dollars—as well as pounds—passing through Bermuda. The accepted talk in the streets of Hamilton, and one hears it on all sides, is that some Bermudians are buying dollars in the earth or in U. S. banks, and are serving as go-betweens for the illegal traffic between London and New York.

A prominent Bermuda merchant was convicted two weeks ago and faces a heavy fine and jail sentence for taking part in this dodge. He was accused of accepting a fortune in pounds from an Englishman who wished mightily to get his money into dollars before the expected devaluation of the pound. Incidentally, people in Bermuda close to the sensitive dollar-pound question believe the pound will shrink sometime in September, a momentous step if taken.

Makes Business Contacts

The nature of the convicted merchant's business—souvenir shops—brought him in contact with free-spending Americans. At certain alleged bargain rates the merchant then bought for dollars his friend's fortune in pounds, then mailed or took the dollars to the states for deposit in the friend's name. It was charged that his cut was five per cent, an indication that such raake-offs are not confined to Washington.

The prestige of the American buck comes as something of a surprise to the infrequent traveler who ventures beyond the borders of the U. S. At home he is inclined to grumble that the darn thing doesn't buy even four-bits worth anymore. Some have suggested that it be given another name because its present one-dollar—has about it the spurious air of Russian Royalty.

But take one step out of the country, brother, and you find your dollars have assumed an almost phosphorescent aura. To obtain them from you, otherwise law-abiding people will go to almost any end. Such activities by decent people have taken on an air of immorality rather than immorality. David Huxley, Solicitor General of Bermuda, who prosecuted the merchant in question, sees the current law-breaking as akin to the way in which Americans of good faith broke the solemn prohibition law, though they blanch at the thought of parking double.

The temptations of the sterling area people to get their money into dollars must be mighty. The native Bermudian, for instance, shares the economic bondage which has come upon his fellow sterlingites. Unless he can plead business, or prove that he needs medical attention not obtainable in his island, he is not permitted to visit the U. S. or Canada more than once a year. He can exchange only enough sterling to put $300 in his pocket, about enough for two nights out in New York, food and shelter.

Devises Ingenious Ways

This has caused the Bermudian, and others, to devise ingenious ways and means of getting his hand on more dollars and, as we say, toy with the thought of getting all he possesses into our money and our banks.

Last year the Bermuda government rushed through a law which forbids non-Bermudians from buying more than one home in 1926.

These Days By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Church And State

IT does not appear that during our generation the issue is the invasion of the authority of the state by the church, as it is that the state is occupying the church and making of it an instrument of the state. It is not a question of rendering unto Caesar the things which are Caesar's, but rather that Caesar takes all and calls himself God.

In the Neo-Paganism which goes by so many different names, the battle is against the concept that man in his moral phases transcends the power of the state because his responsibility is to the unknowable, intangible, unpunishable, unkillable God.

That concept irritates the rulers of men who have been thrown up by war and revolution and who live in fear and by terror. The solace of religion undoes their work, for those who love God fear neither torture nor death and therefore are unbeatable.

The expansion of the power of the state over the influence of religion first expresses itself in the field of education. In many countries, the only available education has been church schools, of one kind or another, and that was true during the first two centuries of the territory which is now the United States. Most of our best universities were founded as church schools, Harvard by the Congregationalists, Columbia by the Episcopalians, Princeton by the Presbyterians, and so on. And that goes as well for the better preparatory schools. The best schools and colleges in such a country as China or Syria were founded by Christian missionaries. All the great universities of Europe were established by clerics. The secularization of education is historically novel in our civilization and has not yet proved itself, except functionally.

The argument against some forms of education, particularly the Roman Catholic form, is that the object of the priests is to keep the students in ignorance and it is often cited that in Spain no one knows about Darwin; yet, the most currently accepted doctrine of evolution was established by the Monk, Mendel. In Soviet Russia, the Mendelian theory is rejected in favor of the Michurin-Lysenko theory, which has not been established but is based upon Marxian orthodoxy.

I think that all the foregoing proves nothing just as the converse proves nothing except that the human mind loves to generalize from the particular and, finding logic a difficult task and not especially entertaining, rushes to conclusions based upon meaningless slogans.

Thus, when Cardinal Spellman contends that it is psychologically and even nationally wrong to warp a child's mind by causing it to assume that it is inferior to other children because it obeys its parents and attends a religious school, there is an immediate outcry of church versus state, which is not the issue at all.

If the Catholic or one of the approximately 250 Protestant sects or the Jews demanded that the state support their schools out of taxes, I should be among the first to oppose them. And my grounds would be that these religious schools are a sanctuary and a refuge from secular, a moral, functional, materialistic education and are too valuable to be corrupted by the expanding power of the state. I should, in such circumstances, accuse those who accepted state aid of selling their souls for a mess of subsidies.

I have never heard of such schools requesting state subventions either from the states or the federal government. What they have said is that when social, extracurricular benefits are given to American children, like bus rides to schools, or a glass of milk or orange juice, or medical or dental supervision, such should be given to all children.

It is difficult, by any process of logic, to stretch this concept of equal advantage to all children to the sloganized issue of the expansion of the church into the realm of the state.

Perhaps sectarianism is important to some people, particularly to professional theologians, but those of us who are not theologians want no American child to grow up believing that to obey his parents places him or her at a hateful disadvantage and that equality of opportunity is a myth for all who accept the traditions of their fathers. That is the issue.

Business Honeymoon Over; No Need Of A Depression

By ROGER W. BABSON

GLoucester, Mass., July 31—I am happy to be back again on Cape Ann. I am sure there is no better place for summer anywhere in the whole U. S.; and this makes a pretty good home for the entire year.

Unfortunately, Gloucester—like most of New England—has some unemployment. That is, there are many who cannot get jobs which pay the wages these unemployed want. It is very hard for girls, who got over $45 per week during the war, to work for $25 which is all that many employers can now afford. As my old friends and their children, here in Gloucester, ask my advice as to what to do, I say—

"Take the $25 a week job; be the first there every morning; the last to leave every night; and help your employer make some money. The important thing is to 'get your foot in the door.' When I graduated from college, I tramped the streets six weeks looking for a job and finally took one at $8.00 per week. Of course, $8.00 then bought more than double what it does now;—but this is not the fault of any employer."

A Lesson In Economics

The cost of honest and sensible living is the real thing in which we all should be interested. It's not how much money we get in our pay envelope, but rather how much that pay envelope will buy in food, clothing and shelter. Well, to increase this latter requires that more people shall work. Short hours and loading send up costs whether this only is on the job or off the job. Only as more goods are produced, is there more to divide. This is another reason for taking a $25 to $30 a week job. It's a crime for any of us to loaf.

The business honeymoon is over, but there is no need of a depression now if everyone will keep busy. The wages received are of secondary importance. Lower wages will cramp us for awhile and force our families to give up temporarily some things we now enjoy.—perhaps islands. Wealthy British were buying up as many as eight at a crack—which could mean a million dollars, Bermuda real estate costing what it does—and then selling to U. S. buyers (seeking perhaps to live in tax-free Bermuda) for dollars. Those multiple-owners who were unable to sell for dollars were just as happy to rent to Americans, provided the money was deposited in dollars in the U. S.

The dollar is legal tender in Bermuda, for reasons which may now be under scrutiny. Bermuda's closely-knit ruling class has successfully fought all efforts to pass a law (common to other foreign countries) which would funnel most of the incoming U. S. tourist and trade dollars into proper government channels, with the visitor being forced to exchange his bucks for the currency of the realm.

The current excuse for the absence of such a law—and the absence daily causes a flood of U. S. money to fall into the hands of the sorely tempted—is that it would be too much bother. And that, like equipping airliner with parachutes, would discourage business.

The gentleman from Whitehall will want to know more.

beauty shops, dry cleaners, telephones and even automobiles—but the family income at one half war wages will give nourishing food, good-looking clothes and a place to sleep. Smart are those who first realize this. Foolish are those who are now unnecessarily accepting unemployment insurance.

President Truman's Theory

It is unpopular amongst businessmen to say a good word for Mr. Truman; but there may be some sense in the theory of his leading Cabinet Member Charles Brannan, Secretary of Agriculture. His advice—as I understand it—is to let prices and wages find their natural levels and then have the government protect farmers with subsidies, and protect wageworkers with old age assistance, free medical service, government housing and other "welfare benefits." This is contrary to good Republican doctrine; but I fear it will be tried.

Certainly, the system of price fixing was a big failure; and I believe that wage fixing, either by legislation or labor unions, is bound to create unemployment and hence hold up costs. It seems fine to have a minimum wage of seventy-five cents per hour if you can get a job at that wage; but if your employer can't afford it and you lose your present job at sixty cents per hour you are worse off.

Reduce Costs And Lower Prices

The above is my advice to farmers; but fight for fair subsidies. My advice to wageworkers is to cheerfully accept the "market wage" whatever it may be, but not be ashamed to take reasonable government assistance. As manufacturers are protected by a tariff, so farmers and wageworkers are entitled to some similar protection.

Of course, the above means either higher taxes or more debt. As taxes are now higher than the country can long stand, the Brannan Policy may force an increase in the Federal Debt or a reduction in Federal expenses. It is a crime to waste the people's money. I favor a cut of 10% for all Departments. If the so-called "deficit money" is used for permanent improvements, the Federal Government may be entitled to increase its debt some years the same as is the Telephone Company; but only when so used. Perhaps we must also recognize: our capitalistic system (in order to exist) depends on encouraging people to spend all they earn during good times by instalment buying, expensive advertising and high pressure selling, then it perhaps must in some way take care of the people in lean years when the income is cut off.

Sanitorium To Be Expanded

TERRA ALTA, W. Va.—The West Virginia State Board of Control is planning a million-dollar expansion of Hogenom Sanitorium near here, with available funds bulkheaded by $1,154,000 in federal aid.

Joe F. Burdett, Charleston, W. Va., president of the board, explained the federal funds had been channeled to the board, where they must be matched by state appropriations in the ratio of two to one, by Health Commissioner N. H. Dyer.

Dr. Dyer said that the board will have until the end of the current fiscal year next June 30 in which to use the money.

He said the Board of Control would use immediately — from a total 1949 legislative appropriation of $6,576,500 for new buildings, repairs and alterations at state institutions — a sum of $2,680,000 for additional beds, equipment and hospital clinic facilities at mental and tubercular hospitals.

A considerable portion of the total appropriation, it was explained, will go for new construction at such other board-controlled institutions as the penal centers, correctional and children's homes and center for the aged and infirm.

Burdett said the following amounts in state aid have been earmarked for new buildings and equipment:

Hogenom Sanitorium, $1,000,000; Denmar Sanitorium, $333,000; Spencer State Hospital, $505,000; Huntington State Hospital, $415,000; Weston State Hospital, $225,000; and Lakin State Hospital, $200,000.

In general, he added, each $2 of those outlays will be matched by $1 of federal money.

Try And Stop Me

BY BENNETT CERI

Evelyn Waugh, the writer, has been called by a critic "the most self-assured and unmovable Briton who ever visited Hollywood." Waugh himself relates, however, that one man once succeeded in destroying his self-assurance entirely—and that man was Benito Mussolini.

Homeward bound from reporting the invasion of Ethiopia, Waugh paused in Rome in hope of securing an audience with the Pope. "Only Mussolini can get you one at a time like this," he was told. The British embassy persuaded Mussolini to receive Waugh, and the latter practiced in advance the precise speech he proposed to make.

The long walk to the dictator's desk, with his footsteps re-echoing on the marble floor did Waugh in. "Can't you see I'm signing important documents?" pantomime before throwing down his quill and barking "Well?" Waugh forgot every word he'd meant to say and heard a voice that he recognized with some surprise as his own declare, "Sire, Ethiopia will never be conquered!" That concluded the interview Waugh left for London the same evening.

RADIO IN REVIEW

By JOHN CROSBY

Changing Our Tails

THE MAGNIFICENT MacInnes, a satire on polls, is a thin novel, a one idea novel, that grows a little tiresome, a pity, because its theme is one of the most important of our time and its central idea is not very understood, even by some fairly deep thinkers.

To synopsize the book, a fairly easy task. MacInnes is a man so sensitive to public opinion, he knows instantly what it wants in blouses, moves, books and—above all—on the radio. A couple of promoters get hold of him and pretty soon MacInnes is dictating the format and content of the books, the movies, the radio programs with prodigious success. It's important to remember that MacInnes is not outwitting his own wishes but those of the public. The arts become for the first time in history entirely democratic and the result is pretty horrible. The second best-seller he lays out, for example, sounds exactly like the first. A radio commentator whose ideas are originated by MacInnes or the public so satisfies his listeners they all fall asleep, just like children, as one character suggests.

Listening for the umpteenth time to "The Three Bears."

riduity is beginning to set in, almost a rigor mortis.

At the end of the book, MacInnes himself calls a halt and, to a nation-wide radio audience, he says: "This system we're starting now is like saying you don't like a tree before you've seen the shape of the seed. We're stopping ideas before they get a chance to grow and we're cutting ourselves off from something that's as much our right as air and sunshine."

Since this book is meant to be a satire, the author, Shepherd Mead, is well within his rights in going a little beyond the realm of probability and the alarming thing about the novel is that he doesn't get very far beyond actual facts. Today the content of a lot of radio programs and a great many movies is being determined by a lot of unqualified idiots—pushing buttons or—as I say—pre-testing what or as I am going to see on the screen or hear over the radio.

Leadership in the arts is being abdicated to a lot of people who have no special aptitude or qualifications for it. A butcher would not dream of asking me how to slice up a cow nor would General Motors ask 7,000 housewives how to design next year's Cadillac. But in the realm of ideas and of the arts, this is done every day.

"If we'd depended on polls," one movie executive told me the other day, "we'd never have made 'The Last Weekend'."

Polls are not new, but their grip on the publishing and entertainment world wasn't complete until just before the war. I have an idea why this happened. The word leader, connoting as it did, Der Fuehrer, fell into disrepute and with it went the whole philosophy of leadership. Deviation from the lowest common denominator became somehow Fascist. Any form of leadership is still a pretty suspicious thing even today, even among liberals who are supposed to be proponents of change. Hence the polls which are no more than the crystallization of an attitude. The end result, as that radio columnist—stout fellow—suggested, rigor mortis.

"Nobody asked for Shakespeare or Galileo or Goethe or the steam engine or radio," says one character in the book. "Before they happened, nobody could have imagined them. And even if anybody could imagine them the surveys would have voted them down right from the start."

Virginia Bruce To Star In "Make Believe Town"

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, July 31—Virginia Bruce, one of Hollywood's leading ladies, will star daily in "Make Believe Town," new five-a-week Monday through Friday series starting half hour dramatic series starting Monday over CBS. The stories will depict the glamour and heartbreak that make up the fabulous city of Hollywood. The time is 3.30. This show had been vacated by Robert Q. Lewis, the homey humorist, who is substiting for Arthur Godfrey while "Arthur," the "Gru" vacations.

Lewis started his song, waisted and mugged his commercials. Now he has developed a new talent. He sings—comedy style—to old time tunes which offset his laugh making activities at 10.15 a.m.

Two U. S. Senators, John J. Sparkman (D., Ala.) and George W. Malone (R., Nev.) will be oratorical opponents on ABC's moot court, "On Trial" at 10.30 p. m. The subject under fire will be "Should The Government Plan To Stop Recession?" Sparkman will take up the cudgel for the Pros. Malone for the Cons.

Jascha Heifetz, world renowned violin virtuoso, will soloist on the Don Voorhees concert Monday at 9 p. m. over NBC.

Oakland Centennial Data Slated To Be Preserved In Time Capsule

Citizens of Oakland in 2049 will have no trouble gathering data about their ancestors should they wish to mark the town's 200th birthday.

During the Oakland Centennial celebration during the week of August 8, a "Century Vault" will be sealed in a special time capsule and placed in the Court House lawn.

The vault has been so named because it is supposed to be unsealed exactly 100 years from now.

The capsule will contain such data of Oakland in 1949 as records of population, agriculture, finance and business, public health and education. There will be aerial views of the town and photos of present day fashions, travel, wildlife, and sports.

Also included in the vault will be sound recordings of the chorus for the centennial pageant and a choir for Sunday service, actual samples of coal, grains and coins. Such documentary items as Centennial Week copies of the two Oakland weekly newspapers, The Mountain Democrat, and The Republican, the program of the week and copies of the script of an historical pageant, "Song of the Oaks," will be included.

Messages for the vault are being sought from President Harry S. Truman, former President Herbert Hoover, Senator Millard E. Tydings, Senator Herbert O'Connor, Governor William Preston Lane, Jr., Rep. J. Glenn Beall and others.

Under the sponsorship of The Republican, the time capsule will be placed in the Court House lawn in special ceremonies Friday, August 12.

The Veterans Day parade which had been scheduled for 4 p. m. August 12 has been postponed until 7 o'clock that night. Prizes totaling $1,000 will be awarded.

The resignation of John Stephenson as chairman of the Veterans Day committee has been accepted and Arthur Calhoun named to fill the vacancy.

Arrangements are being completed for the dedication of a suitable memorial to veterans who died during World War II. Appropriate exercises will be held at the Legion Home, Veterans Day.

Channel Kicks Up Show For Swimmer

DOVER, Eng., July 31 (AP) — The English Channel kicked up a rough show today for Shirley May France, Somerset, Mass., here to prepare for an attempt to swim across it.

Strong westerly winds whipped the sea into angry waves. Rain squalls reduced visibility. From her seaside hotel window, the 16-year-old Shirley May could see less than a quarter of the way across the 21-mile strait. She hopes to beat Gertrude Ederle's 1926 record of 14 hours, 31 minutes.

Expect Economic Squall

FRANKFURT, Germany, July 31 (AP) — Many American authorities here expect an economic squall to hit western Germany in the next few months.

In the city of Perugia, Italy, you will find an art-history collector, a botanical garden, and a valuable university collection of Etruscan, Roman and medieval antiquities.

When Annie Oakley, best woman rifle shot in the world, was 15, she met Frank Butler, beat him in a shooting match, and later became his wife.

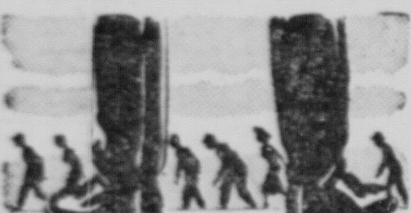

MIRROR of your MIND

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

Should husbands and wives take separate vacations?

Answer: I have known psychiatrists who thought so, and there's something to be said for the idea with certain types of people. There are partners who sincerely love each other, and yet sometimes feel a need to escape the close contacts of marriage and regain their sense of individual freedom. But this generally is because one of them unconsciously dominates the other, insisting on knowing his or her most intimate thoughts and on making all decisions. People who know when to let each other alone when together don't need to be separated.

Are we humans turning into termites?

Answer: We're showing a dangerous trend in that direction, believes Dr. John Bostock, Australian psychiatrist. In the course of evolution, he writes, every organism has to choose between the risks of individual freedom and the relative safety of a community life in which — as in the case of the termite ants — the individual has no rights or powers of initiative. Today there are signs that fear and insecurity are tempting mankind to surrender freedom for regimentation and totalitarianism, but there can be no real happiness for men and women who are not free.

Va., Mr. Hileman, a master plumber, had lived more than a quarter century in Dayton, where he operated a plumbing business. He is survived by his wife; both parents, and the following brothers and sisters in addition to O. C. Hileman: Paul and Charles, both of Dayton; Frank, Kingwood, W. Va.; Bert, Ripley, W. STEARNS SERVICE

A requiem mass for Harry D. Stearns, 50, of 710 Hill Top Drive, district manager of Darnell Theatres, Inc., who died Friday of a heart attack while golfing at the Cumberland Country Club, will be celebrated in St. Patrick's Catholic Church today at 10 a. m.

Rev. Charles W. Bogan, pastor of St. Mary's Catholic Church, Lonaconing, will officiate. Interment will be in St. Mary's Burial Park, Oldtown Road.

EUGENE C. WILLIAMS

Eugene Curtis Williams, 41, former resident, died of a heart attack Saturday at his home in Gettysburg, Pa.

A native of Cumberland, he was a son of Mrs. Rose Williams, Gettysburg, and the late Alva Williams, former manager of the C. and A. Gas Company office.

Mr. Williams worked for the gas company as a youth and had been employed as a general foreman in Gettysburg, Pa., by the local office prior to being transferred in January, 1945, to Piedmont, W. Va., as manager of that office. He and his staff had moved into new offices at Gettysburg the day before his death.

Mr. Williams was a member and vestryman of the Prince of Peace Episcopal Church, Gettysburg, and the Elks and Lions clubs of that city. He was also a member of the Quarter Century Club of the Columbia Gas System.

He is survived by his wife, the former Miss LaVerne Barth, of Mt. Savage; a daughter, Jean Ann Williams, at home, and her twin brother, Robert Williams, stationed with the Air Force at Lackland Field, San Antonio, Texas; two sisters, Mrs. Josephine Statler and Mrs. James L. Shrou, both of Gettysburg, and three brothers, Alva Williams, Gettysburg; Harry L. Williams, Warren-Robins, Ga.; and Thomas Williams, Bridgeport, Conn. A service will be held this morning at the Episcopal Church in Gettysburg, and interment will be at 2 p. m. today in St. George's Episcopal Cemetery, Mt. Savage.

Shrine Club Plans Meeting

KEYSER, W. Va. — A business and dinner meeting of the Upper Potomac Shrine Club will be held in the New Colonial Room of the Old Homestead Hotel, Burlington, Wednesday at 7 p. m. (DST).

At that time a report will be made by Fred Davis on the progress of White Farm Playground in West Keyser, which the local Shrine Club is sponsoring.

Payrolls Here Show Decrease

The monthly activities report of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce reveals that payrolls in June of this year were down $1,094,156.13 from June, 1948.

Contrasting the annual payroll in 1939 of $18,000,000, however, the 1949 payroll of the 17 industries will total more than $35,000,000. Chamber officials said, approximately twice as much as ten years ago.

The June payroll this year was $2,911,069.75 while in June, 1948 the total was $4,005,245.88. The decrease is attributed mostly to curtailed operations at the huge Celanese Corporation of America plant here with the attendant furlough of nearly 6,000 workers since the first of the year.

Increases were noted in postal receipts, postal savings bonds and building permits during June, 1949 as compared with the previous month.

The August, 1949 "Sales Management" retail sales forecast for Cumberland, indicates a volume of $4,880,000, or 281.1 of the volume of August, 1939, and 94.2 of the volume of August, 1948.

The local office of the Maryland Employment Service shows 8,511 persons registered as of July 15. This is an increase of 1,124 since June 15. The report shows 11,010 persons employed during June in the 17 industries as compared to 17,729 in June of last year. This is a decrease of 6,719 workers.

During 1948 the annual payroll for Cumberland's 17 industries was $51,332,209 with April 1948 having an all-time high of $5,307,774.50 paid out in wages for that month.

Trieste Troops Go To School

TRIESTE — (AP) — Soldiers of Trieste United States Troops (trust) will be able to attend High School Courses while overseas.

The 391st Infantry Regiment Educational Center has organized academic courses in algebra, English and European history, biology and technical-vocational courses in typing and mechanical drawing.

Each class meets twice a week for one and one-half hours. Sixteen weeks of satisfactory work in the courses is the equivalent of a six-month course in an American high school, says Robert C. Riegler, (Columbus, Ohio) Trust educational director.

Tito Ends Vacation

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, July 31 (AP) — Premier Marshal Tito, returning from his Adriatic vacation, lunged today into trade talks vital to his five-year economic plan.

Walters Is Suspended For Run-In With Ump

CINCINNATI, July 31 (AP) — Bucky Walters, manager of the Cincinnati Reds, today was suspended for five days by Ford Frick, president of the National League, as a result of an altercation with Umpire Lee Ballan-fant in the Reds' game with the New York Giants yesterday.

Bucky, drawing the first suspension of his major league career, also was fined $150. The suspension was effective immediately and Redleg coach Luke Sewell filled in as manager as the Reds and Giants met in a doubleheader.

Peanuts Lowrey, Cincinnati left fielder, who also figured in the altercation, was fined $50 by Frick.

Billy Talbert Scores Over Pancho Gonzales

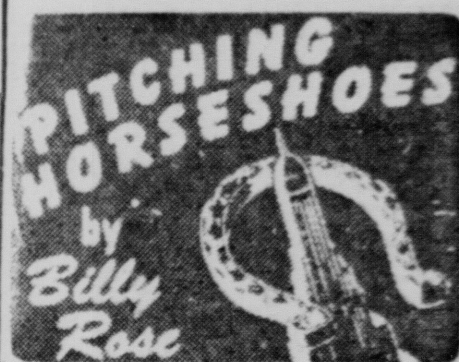

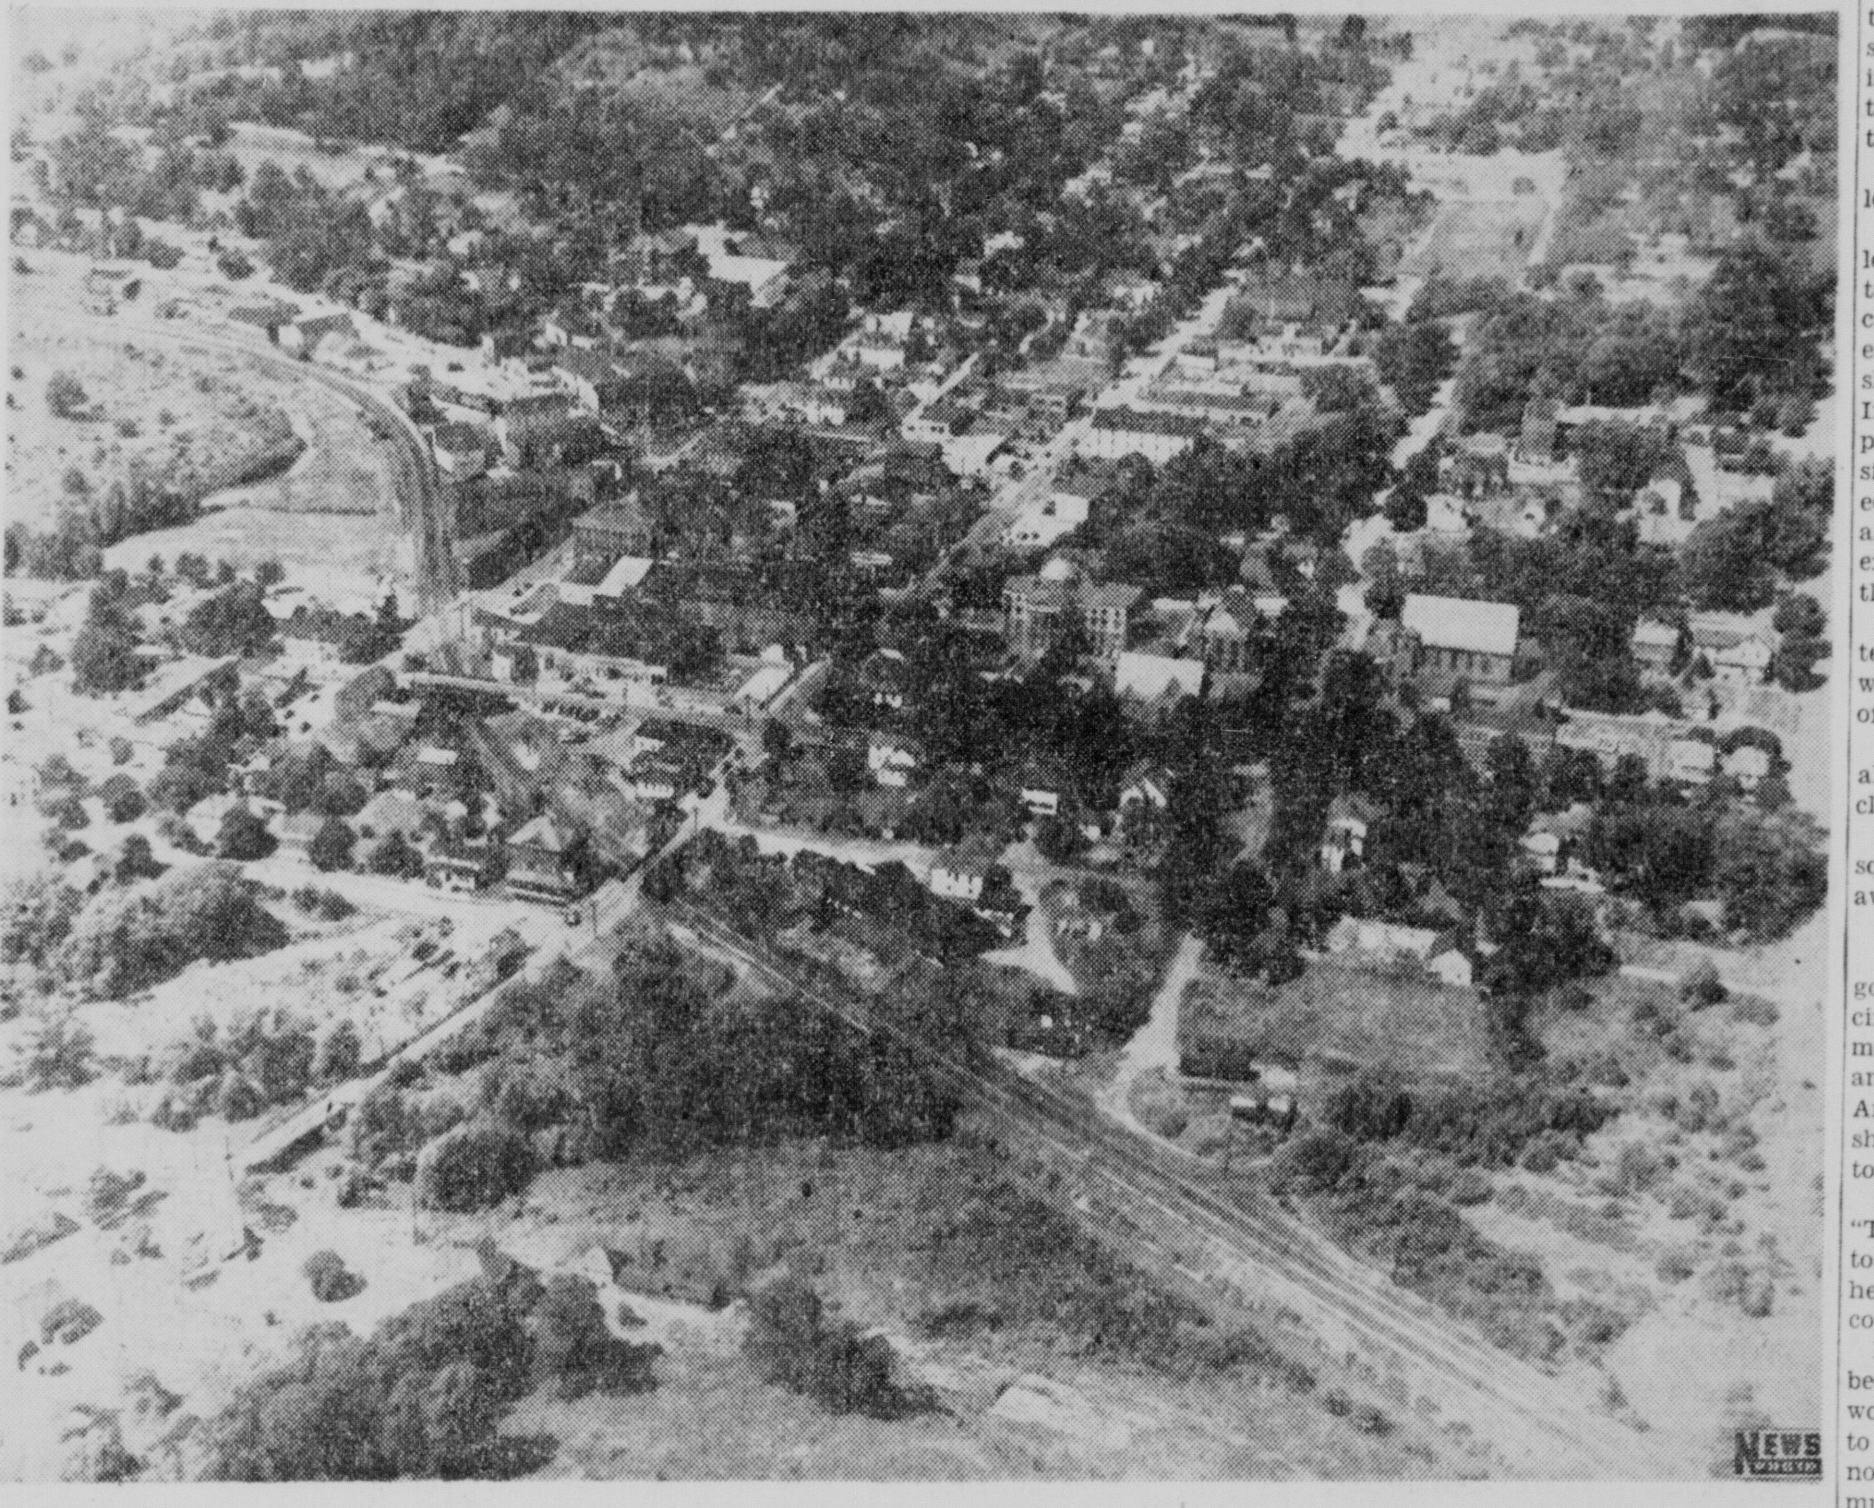

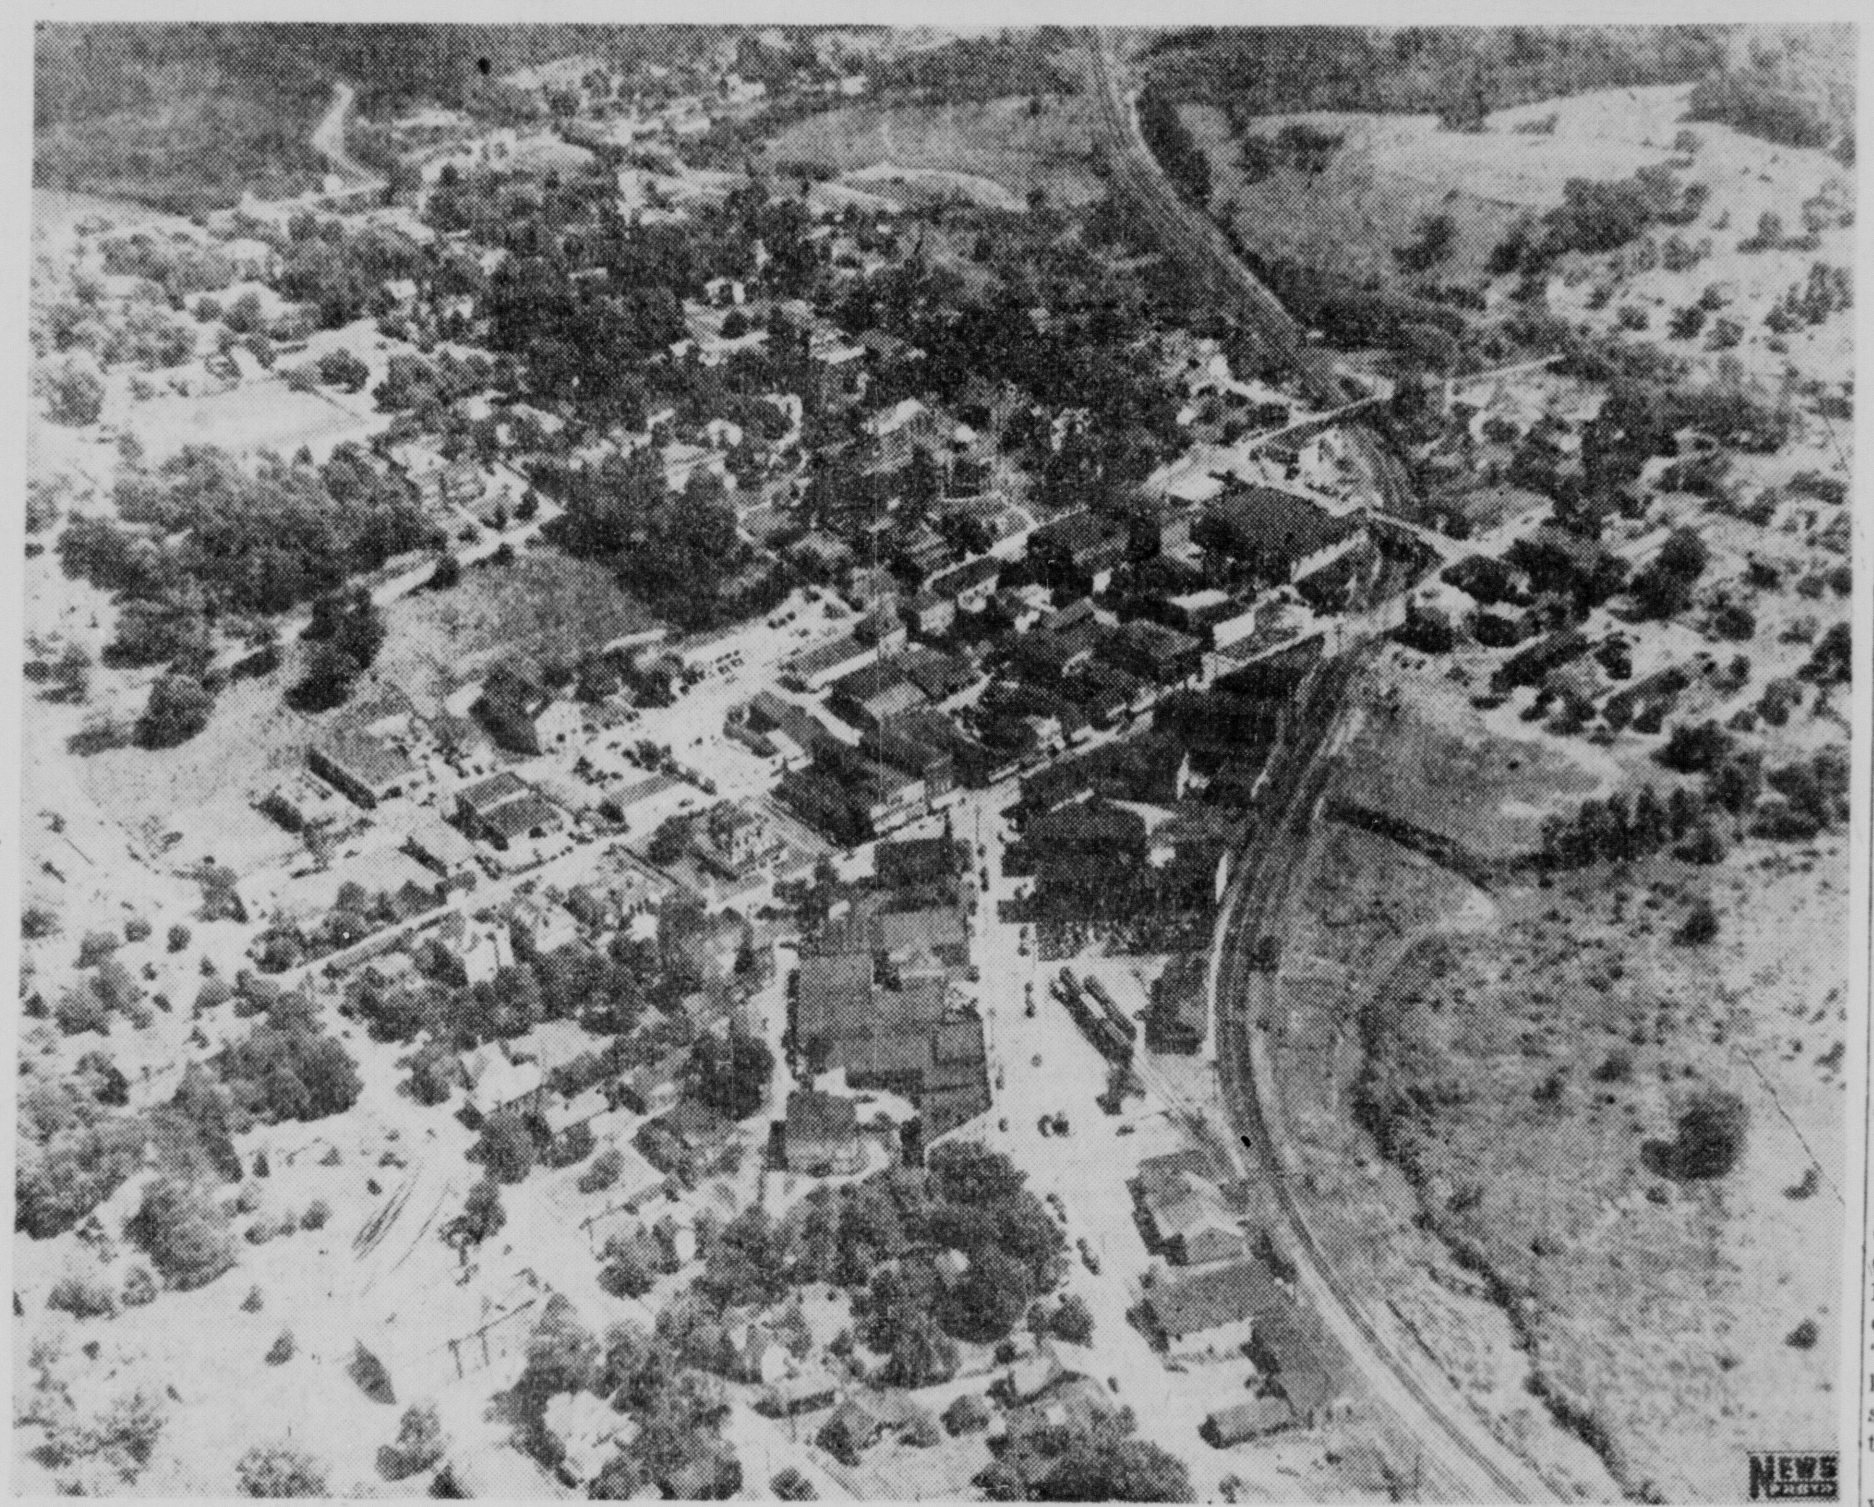

SOUTHAMPTON, N. Y., July 31 (AP) — Billy Talbert of New York defeated national amateur champion Richard (Pancho) Gonzales of Los Angeles today in the finals of the Meadow Club Invitation Golf Tournament at Southampton, 6-4, 5-7, 3-6, 7-5, 6-2.

Gonzales' defeat is expected to seriously affect his chances of winning a berth on the American Davis Cup team. He wilted in the final set after the doped Talbert came back from near defeat in the fourth set.

CENTENNIAL SITE — These pictures are aerial views of Oakland, county seat of Garrett County, which will celebrate the centennial of its founding the week of August 8. The top picture shows the County Court House. On one corner of the Court House lawn will be placed a "Century Vault," containing data about the centennial celebration. The vault will not be opened until the year 2049. Visible in the lower left hand corner of the picture is a tremendous "birthday cake" which is being especially constructed for the week-long festivities. The middle photograph was taken looking into a southeasterly direction. The site of the town's new armory may be seen in the upper left-hand corner. The bottom picture is an aerial view of the city looking north. Thousands of visitors are expected to attend the centennial observance.

The members of the gang squatted in a small circle on a patch of green a block away from the subway station at 242nd Street. Their eyes were in fixed focus on a shiny object at their feet—the Hope Diamond.

Let me end the suspense here and now by announcing that the gang was made up of boys who had gotten together to decide the marble championship of the Upper Bronx, and that the shiny object at their feet was not the unlucky stone of great price you've been reading about for years, but a legendary agate known to small fry from the Triborough Bridge to Spuyten Duyvil as the Hope Diamond shooter.

Now, a shooter, or "real," as the aficionados call it, looks a lot like an ordinary marble, but any kid who knows a heist-shot from a knuckle-down can tell you the difference. The shooter is heavier, truer, more cunningly fashioned than the ordinary immitable, and even more important, there exists between it and the thumb and forefinger of its owner a spiritual affinity which makes it more precious to him than all the other marbles he owns. When a player loses in a "for-keeps" game, he pays off with common, earth-bound miggels—he would no more think of parting with his shooter than a good family man would with his life insurance.

Now, it figures that by this time you're bustin' to know something about the owner of the Hope Diamond shooter, and how the fabled marble happened to wind up at the feet of a bunch of kids on the day of the big tournament. Well, for you to get the complete picture, it is necessary for me to sketch in some of the background of the shooter—a story which, I might add, in many respects parallels the history of its super-jinxed namesake.

As the fen-everything set recalls it, the Hope Diamond was first brought to the Bronx by a player who originally hailed from Chepachet, Rhode Island. After a series of backyard triumphs, he won the right to participate in a semi-final, but the morning of the contest one of the late-bearings in his skates got stuck and, in the header which followed, his shooting finger was so badly bruised that he had to withdraw.

Then, for a while, the malevolent marble was owned by Irv Sondergaard, but shortly after he acquired it, the boy developed a game leg and was forever barred by his doctor from kneeling on the damp earth.

Finally, Whitey Wizoczek, reputed to have the most skillful thumb north of the Harlem River, latched on to the shooter, but two days before the big tournament, the jinx caught up with him and he broke a couple of ribs falling off the back of an ice truck.

The easiest thing, of course, would have been to throw away the hex-heavy shooter but, as you know, the ways of men and urchins under the spell of superstition are hard to explain. Harry Winston's Hope Diamond, too, is supposed to carry a curse with it, but as you may have noticed, Harry hasn't thrown it away either.

And so, five minutes before the contest, Charlie Hersch, Whitey's closest friend, dropped the Hope Diamond shooter in front of the contestants with the dire words, "Wizoczek! says anybody wants it kin have it, only he oughta make sure his family kin afford the doctor bills."

Eleven of the players regarded it with awe and distrust, but the twelfth—a dark horse from the swanky Riverdale section—was not impressed. He picked it up, tried a test shot, and said, "If nobody wants the Diamond, I'll use it."

"Ya be lucky if ya don't bust a leg," said Hymie Michernick.

Well, for most of the contest it looked as if the rich kid was a cinch to win. Not only did the Diamond connect with everything it went after, but it seemed to hex the other shooters that attempted to hit it. Inspired and made confident by its performance, the kid from Riverdale sighted long and carefully, considered the topography of the ground and, when the situation called for extreme measures, even shot from the stomach position.

However, as the match entered the tenth and final round, a station wagon pulled up and a hefty Swede of a nursemaid got out.

"Ja-ackie," she shouted. "Dinner's almost ready and look at your clothes!" You're a sight!

"Wait a minute," said the kid, squinting at a marble four feet away.

"Albert!" yelled the nursemaid. A chauffeur with big shoulders got out and walked toward the circle. Jackie dropped the Hope Diamond in disgust, said "Aw, nuts!" and climbed into the station wagon. And, as it drove away, the blood-shot eye of the blue shooter seemed to wink at the other players.

Hymie Michernick picked it up. "This is the last time it's going to put the squitch on anybody," he said, and threw it as far as he could.

Now, if the Hope Diamond had been an ordinary shooter, the story would end here. But, as I have gone to some pains to make clear, it was not. Propelled by the Michernick muscles, the little ball of fire sailed through the air for 50 feet, bounced off a tin can on the sidewalk, and was picked up an hour later by an intern on his way to the hospital.

"I know someone who'll get a real kick out of this," he said, handing the Hope Diamond shooter to one of the nurses. "Will you give this marble to the patient in room 218. Whitey Wizoczek — the little boy who broke his ribs."

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our son and brother, Wm. Woods, killed in action in France, August 1st, 1944.

Five years have passed since we lost you. Since you have far outlived your years. Years of sorrow and anguish. Years that have been dashed away!

On an unknown field of battle, God, in His wisdom, knew best. And sending you to rest. Your "Dad" home to rest! Sadly missed by his parents, Mr. & Mrs. Terence P. Woods and Family.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay
"The Authority on Authorities"

VULNERABILITY DECIDES
WHENEVER both sides are bidding vigorously, vulnerability can decide your final action. If you feel that your side has the balance of power and can take its choice between making its own game or beating doubled opponents a couple of tricks, aim to be the declarer if your side is vulnerable and the opponents are not. If you feel that they are stronger, you can make their game or defeat you a couple, then also seek to be the declarer if they are vulnerable and you not. With vulnerability reversed in either case, reverse your objective.

What an unsound double that was set only one trick, giving East and West an insignificant 100 points.

With vulnerability as it was, East should have gone for game by his own side, after North decided to pass the 2-Clubs. To make sure of a game contract, East should have hoped all the way to 3-No Trumps, as he could not otherwise dispel the illusion caused by his pass of the 1-No Trump. Game would have been a cinch for him, as the club suit would have been blocked automatically by his holding. In fact, an extra trick was easy without half trying for it.

Here you found two terrific competitors in the North-South seats. North especially was an extremist, a fellow who would resort to radical bidding in order to balk the other fellows out of a nice vulnerable game. His 1-No Trump was a psychic of purest ray serene. All players at the table knew his propensity for such calls, including South, who did the natural thing with his takeout 2-Clubs.

Now let's consider East. He

Several Persons Hurt When Half Of Chicago Express Is Derailed Near Hancock

Four Cars Of Crack B & O Train Block Two Main Tracks

Several passengers on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad's crack Chicago Express were hurt and two tracks of the main line were blocked when four cars of the eight-car west-bound train derailed just east of Sleepy Creek, W. Va., near Hancock at 3:07 p. m. yesterday.

The last four cars of the Diesel-drawn Train No. 9 left the tracks from an undetermined cause. Two Pullman cars overturned and blocked two of the three tracks.

About six passengers aboard the express were hurt, but local railroad officials refused to disclose their names.

A Baltimore man, identified only as a Western Union official, was taken off the train, treated by a physician for head cuts and returned home aboard the Cincinnati.

W. W. Matthews, Baltimore, formerly of Cumberland, was engineer and railroad sources said the fireman was A. V. Meeks, 245 Williams Street. Neither was injured.

Hospital Alerted

The hospital at Berkeley Springs, near Sleepy Creek, was alerted but no passenger were injured seriously enough to require hospitalization. A Hancock physician, Dr. Herbert Tobias, was summoned to the scene of the wreck.

H. C. Miller, Baltimore, conductor of the train, said the train was on a straight and level stretch of track a mile east of Sleepy Creek when the wreck occurred.

Miller said he was standing in the last car of the eight-car train, a Pullman, when it suddenly lurched, throwing him to the floor.

The car bumped along on the ties for a short distance, he declared, and then left the track and upset. A Pullman and two coaches preceding it also left the rails. Both Pullman cars turned over but the coaches did not upset.

The accident occurred at 3:07 p. m. (EST). One railroad source said the train was traveling about 50 miles an hour.

Railroad officials launched an immediate investigation to determine the cause of the accident, but were unable last night to release any hint as to the cause.

The derailed cars blocked two of the three tracks at the point of the derailment. The other track, track one, remained clear at the point.

Deraiment of two freight cars a half hour earlier at Cumbo, near Martinsburg, blocked track one for a short time, leaving all tracks blocked at one time. Railroad officials, however, said there will be no major interference with traffic. Only two cars of the westbound freight were derailed, and railroad officials said damage was light.

Walter C. Clark, chief dispatcher of the Cumberland Division, and Richard P. Bartlett, trainmaster, said the tracks will probably be blocked all night.

The New York-Chicago express left Washington at 1 p. m. (EST) and was due to arrive here at 4:26 p. m. Passengers of the last four cars were transferred to the club and baggage cars and brought to Cumberland where the train arrived at 6:02 p. m. (EST) an hour and a half late.

Although railroad officials declared none of the passengers was seriously injured, they summoned four local officials to the station to treat injured passengers still aboard. The train remained here about 25 minutes before leaving for Pittsburgh.

The local physicians were Dr. Fred Williams, Dr. J. E. McLean, Dr. W. A. Gracie, and Dr. William B. Baker. B. and O. physician, Dr. Williams said a Meyersdale woman was among the four persons he treated.

An ambulance was also summoned to the Queen City station, but none of the passengers required hospitalization.

Three coaches and a diner were added to the express here and two Pullman cars were to be added at Pittsburgh.

Meanwhile, B. and O. inspectors and Pullman Company representatives started an investigation at the scene shortly after the accident was reported.

West Virginia State Police at Berkeley Springs, said 150 yards of track were torn up by the derailment. They quoted railroad officials on the spot as saying the wreck may have resulted from a broken rail.

Eagles Urged To Act In County's Financial Plight

Kelley Addresses FOE District 2

The Fraternal Order of Eagles should take the lead in helping Allegany County back to its feet economically, Estel C. Kelley, local attorney, told a meeting of District 2 of the Eagles yesterday at the home of Cumberland Aerie No. 245.

Kelley's address was part of the observance of the local Aerie's 47th anniversary.

Kelley declared the county has weathered many a depression and recession, and can do so again if action is taken soon enough.

He outlined many of the county's current problems and economic ills and said the Eagles, as a fraternal organization with over 3,500 members here, should take the lead in encouraging action which would put the county on an even financial keel again.

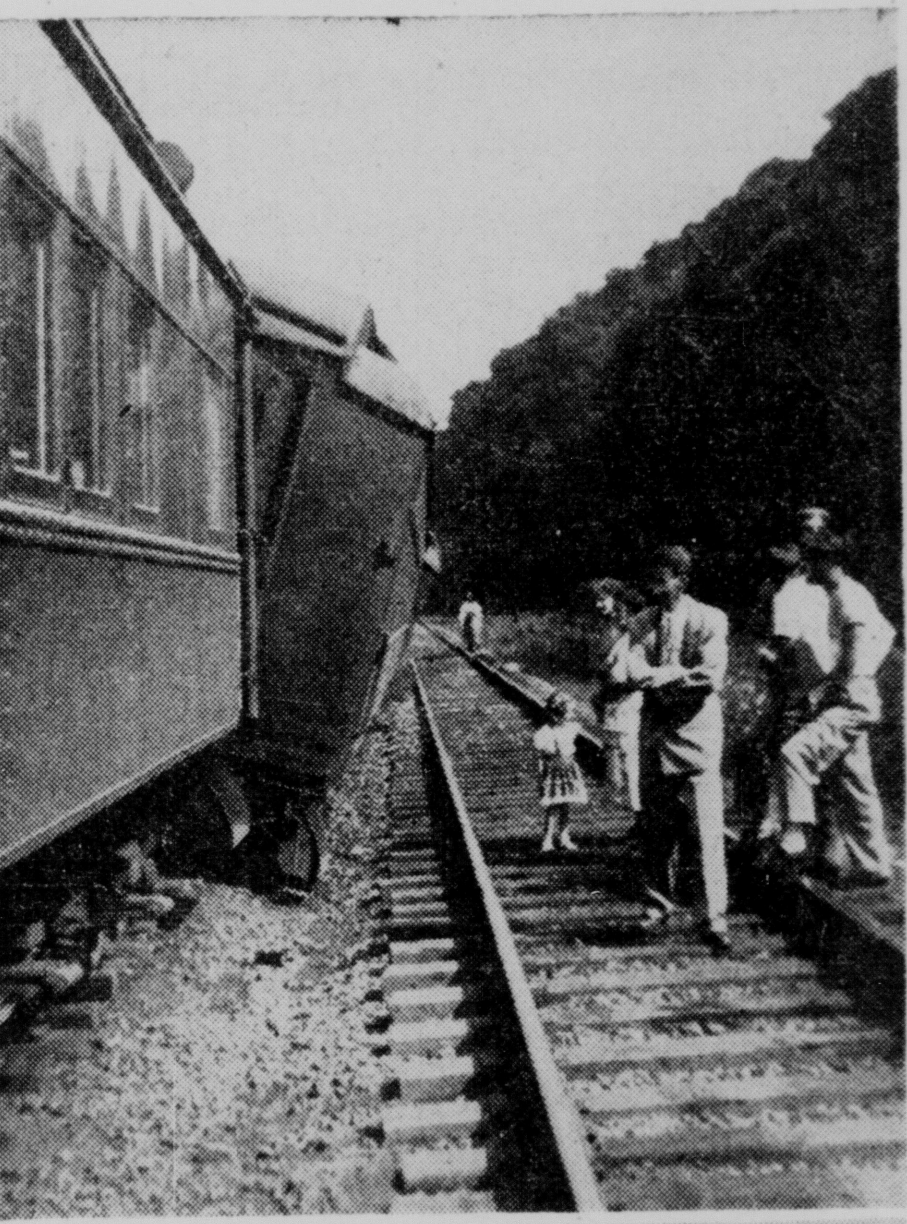

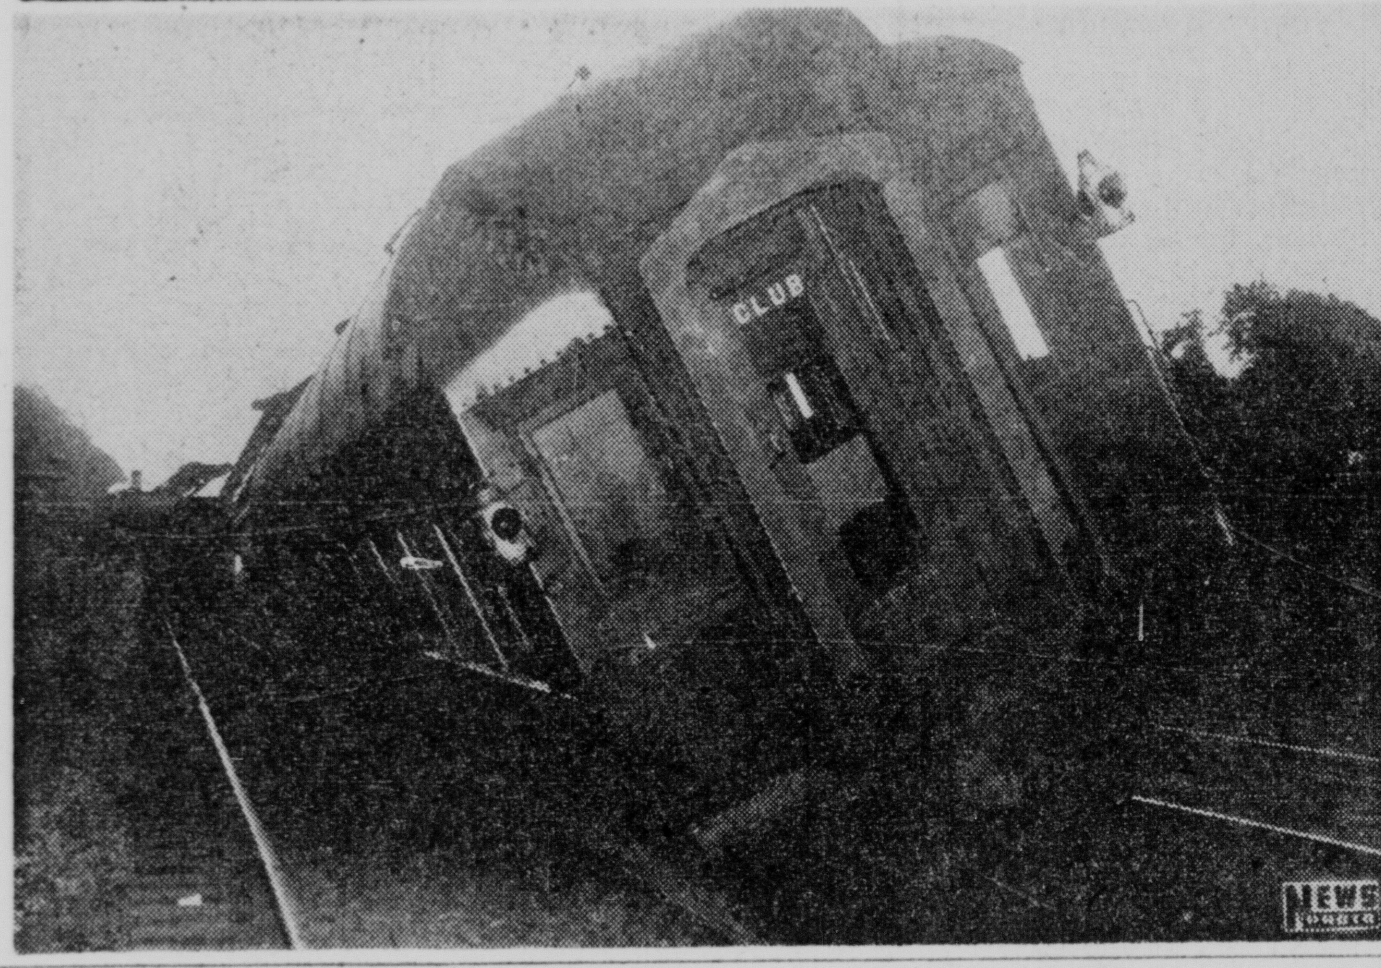

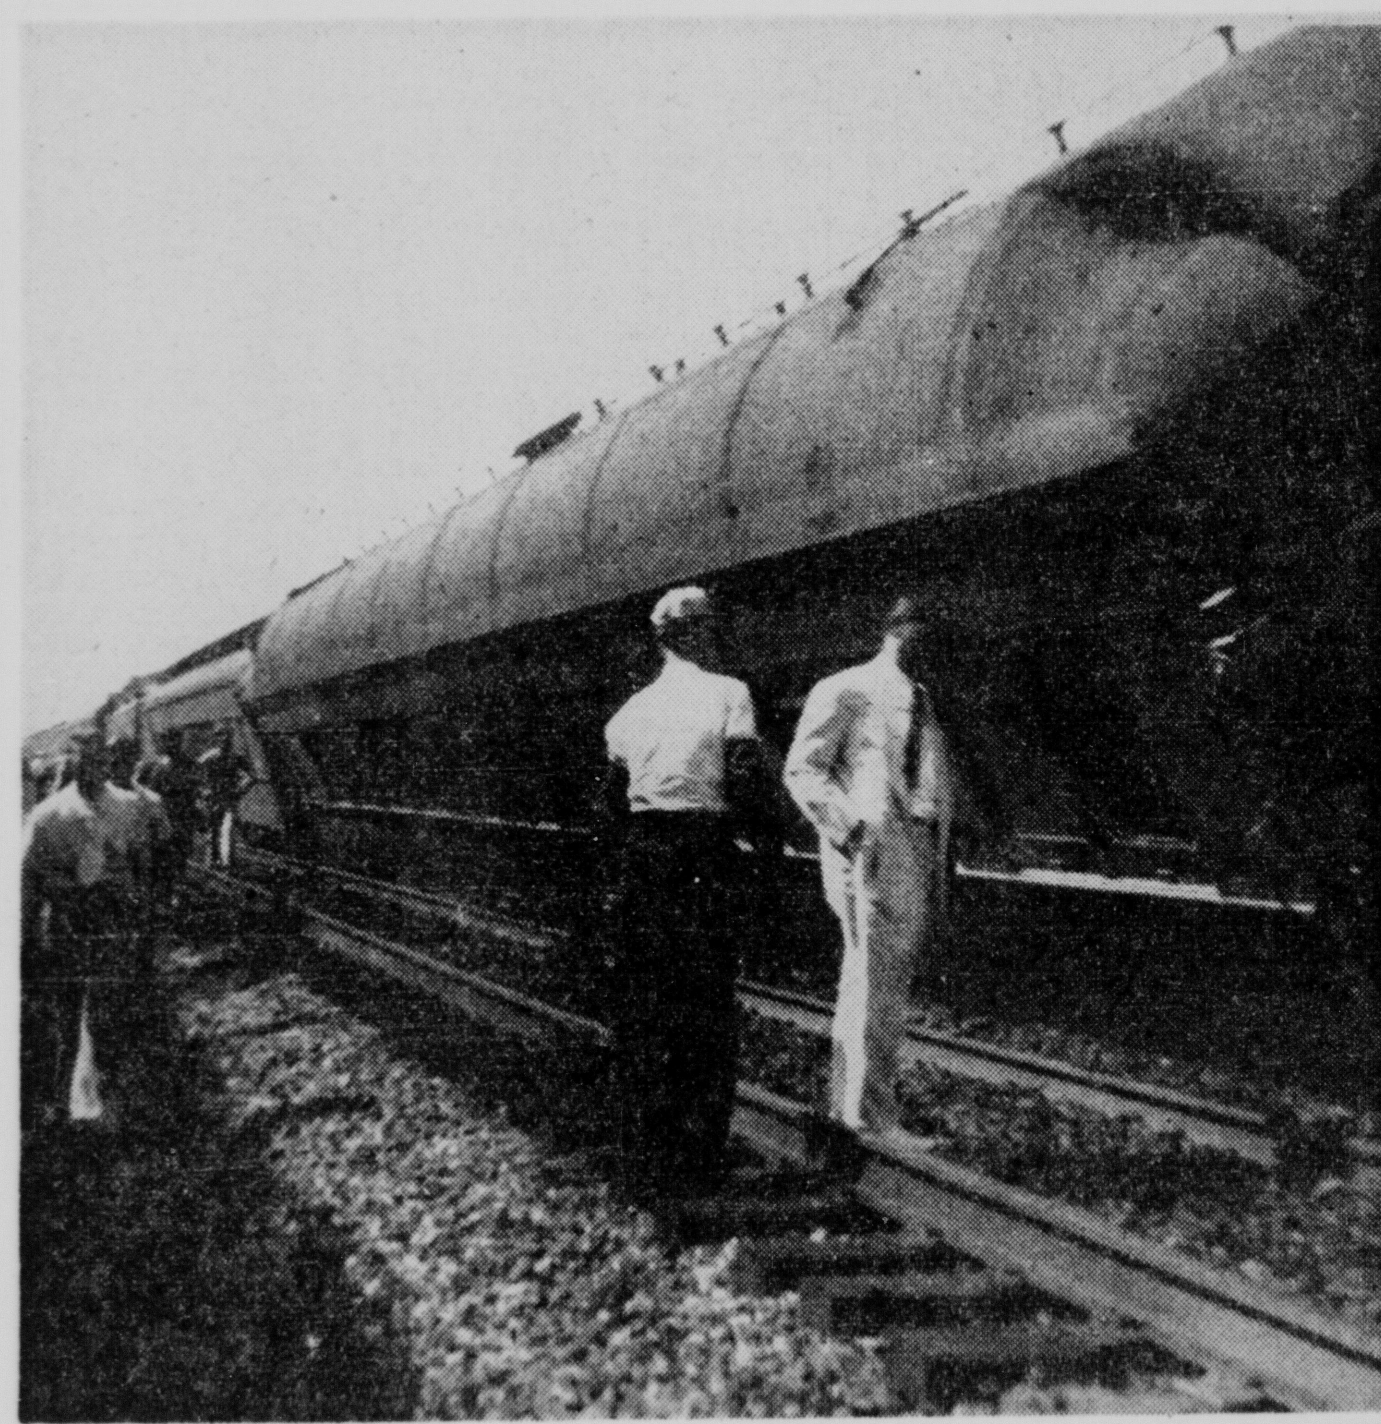

He also declared local Eagles were among the leaders who helped iron out difficulties when the county was beset by coal strikes several years ago.

The district was meeting to start plans for a district-wide "Four Horsemen" membership campaign to open in October. Aerie presidents will name four men to lead the membership drive in each Aerie.

District campaign leaders are C. William H. Baer, of the Cumberland Aerie, Herman L. Myers, also of Cumberland, secretary-treasurer of the state organizational board, and John L. Farrin, district chairman.

Ten new members were initiated into the local Aerie at yesterday's meeting. Degree work was by Hagerstown Aerie 694.

District 2 includes Cumberland, Hagerstown, Cresaptown and Frostburg.

Scenes At Express Wreck

The above photos were taken at the scene of the derailment of four cars of the eight-car Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Chicago Express yesterday afternoon near Sleepy Creek, W. Va., five miles from Hancock. The upper two pictures were taken by a passenger, A. Lieberman, Laurelton, N. Y. The upper left photo is a rear view scene, the upper right was taken from a point next to the sixth car, showing how far off the track the cars were thrown. The lower left picture is a full rear view of the last car, showing the sharp angle at which it upset. At lower right is the window which was broken when an unidentified Baltimore man struck his head against it. Note the blood spots on table.

Strike Vote Set In Blue Ridge Bus Dispute

HAGERSTOWN, Md., July 31 (AP) — A strike vote will be held this week in the contract dispute between the Blue Ridge Transportation Company and its eastern division bus drivers and maintenance men.

The dispute involves about 175 workers, members of the Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employees.

Charles Y. Stickell, president of the union local, said the strike vote will be held Tuesday night and Wednesday morning.

At least two negotiating sessions were held during the past week in an effort to obtain some agreement before the current contract expires today. Talks yesterday broke up when the negotiators again failed to agree.

Stickell said the workers are asking a 20-cent boost in hourly wages, three-week vacations and other benefits. The present contract provides two-week vacations and $140 an hour.

The Blue Ridge firm operates bus routes through Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, Pennsylvania and the District of Columbia.

Weather

What a difference a day can make. Particularly when a little bit of rain (about 21 inches) can break a heat wave and allow Cumberlanders to sleep under blankets again.

The highest official temperature at day yesterday was 79 degrees. The late night reading of 69 degrees was only three degrees above the minimum. Today should be pleasant and sunny with highest temperatures between 78 and 86 degrees.

Familiar Keyser Landmark Victim Of Motor Accident

The old literally displaced the new Saturday as a tractor-trailer knocked over one of Keyser, W. Va.'s landmarks—the town clock.

The clock, which ordinarily sets on the sidewalk in front of a North Main Street jewelry store, fell from its iron stand when the damp street caused the back of the large vehicle to skid.

Keyser police explained that the accident occurred at 3:15 p. m. when Reason Jackson Kimball, driving a tractor-trailer, owned by Riss and Company, Kansas City, Mo., braked to a halt at the red stop light at the corner of Main and Armstrong Streets.

After being pushed from its stand, the clock crashed into the glass

All American Elects Waldeisen To Board

William R. Waldeisen, president of the Williamsport Narrow Fabrics Company and chairman of the Williamsport Airport Authority, Williamsport, Pa., was elected a director of All American Airways at the monthly meeting of the company's Board of Directors, Robert M. Love, president and chairman of the board, announced yesterday.

During Waldeisen's tenure as chairman, the Williamsport Airport Authority completed a program which provided the community with one of the most modern and complete airports in the east, thus making Williamsport an air transport terminal for a large section of north central Pennsylvania.

Waldeisen has also been active in other civic affairs, having been cited by his community for "meritorious service" when chairman of an industrial rehabilitation program composed of a committee including 200 businessmen, which had marked success in bringing new industry to Lycoming County.

He directed the development of a family recreational center along the Loyalsock River, providing outdoor activities for men, women and children. This project is considered the most outstanding of its type in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Williamsport is an intermediate terminal on the Pittsburgh-New York segment of All American's seven-state system.

B & O Recalls 250 Carmen And Mechanics At Keyser, W. Va., And Cumberland Shops

Fifty furloughed Baltimore and Ohio employees will go back to work at the Bolt and Forge Shops here this morning and 200 men will return to the car shops at Keyser, W. Va., according to railroad officials.

Both the local and Keyser shops will reopen this morning after a four-day shutdown which began Tuesday night.

Railroad officials said the furloughed workers have been called back because of the urgent need for repairs to rolling stock.

Roy W. Eves, Bolt and Forge superintendent, declared the return of the 50 men to work today will decrease the number of men furloughed from the Bolt and Forge to about 150 while 100 are still idle at the Bolt Shops.

Railroad officials said it is still uncertain whether more men will be called back to work.

The railroad has also recalled men at the DuBois, Pa., car shops.

Tropic-Like Weather Noted Here In July

July weather statistics make Cumberland sound like something out of the Tropics rather than a self-respecting Northern Hemisphere city.

Not only was the past month hot, but it was wet. According to Robert R. Golden, official weather observer, the average July maximum temperature was 86.3 degrees with a total rainfall of 3.04 inches.

The average maximum for Cumberland is 76 degrees with precipitation of 3.04 inches. However, no record was set in either instance. The only really bad thing about this July's weather was the combination of heat and humidity, Golden explained.

The thermometer reached its 95-degree peak twice this month—once July 5 and again last Friday.

Oddly enough, it was colder than normal last month. The average minimum temperature was 65.7 degrees compared with a normal 74.6 degrees. The lowest recorded temperature was 58. The highest minimum was 72 degrees.

Yesterday's temperatures, brought on as rain broke the week-long heat wave, showed little resemblance to the rest of the month's readings.

The maximum was 79 degrees and the late night 66-degree reading was only two degrees above the 24-hour minimum.

Gas Company Employees To Open Safety Drive Today

The eighth annual "No Accident" safety campaign conducted by the men and women of the Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Company opens today.

Charles E. Bennett, company president, opened the August safety program with a keynote reminder to the gas company men and women, urging them to remember this year's slogan, "Safety Is My Job". He also revealed important reductions in accident severity and frequency.

During the first six months of this year nearly 3,000 men and women in the local gas company and in the associated companies making up the Pittsburgh Group of The Columbia Gas System, Inc., worked approximately 500,000 hours.

In that period of time they reduced the frequency rate from last year's 3.25 to 5.28 accidents per million man hours worked. They also cut into the lost-time accident

McDermott And Wilson Apply For Tax Post

Several Mentioned For City Position

Several persons have been mentioned for the position of city tax collector, and two applications were filed with the Mayor and Council over the weekend, the News learned last night.

Formal applicants are William C. McDermott, 850 Gephart Drive, former acting postmaster at the Cumberland Postoffice, and A. Florian Wilson, 441 Cumberland Street, who was employed for six and one-half years as assistant to the superintendent of personnel at the Celanese plant.

Among others mentioned for the post are R. J. Shepherd, 528 Cumberland Street, who was nominated Friday by Finance Commissioner William H. Buchholz; J. Corfield Patterson, 701 St. Mary's Avenue, local food broker; and DeSales Glick, 120 North Smallwood Street.

City officials are expected to name a new collector at this morning's council meeting.

McDermott became acting postmaster January 1, 1947, following the resignation the previous June of the late James C. Shriver. He served until April 1 of this year, when Thomas F. Conlon was appointed postmaster.

McDermott was employed as an investigator for the Alcoholic Beverages Division of the State Comptroller's office from 1935 until becoming acting postmaster.

Prior to joining the Celanese staff, Wilson was employed by the Good-year Tire and Rubber Company here and also served as manager of the Phoenix, Ariz., branch office of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company.

Wilson is secretary of Chosen Friends Lodge, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, and is past grand patriarch of the State of Maryland, IOOF.

He is a member of the Kiwanis Club, the Cumberland Symphony Orchestra and Duke Memorial Orchestra. Wilson is also choir director at Central Methodist Church.

The new collector would fill the unexpired term of James M. Conway, who died in January. The term expires next March 31.

Youth Injured In Fight Near Oldtown

State Police are investigating a complaint by Gilbert Stevens, 19, of 322 Poca Street, that two men attacked and struck him in the mouth at Oldtown yesterday afternoon.

Trooper First Class A. M. Spioch, who investigated, said Stevens had an altercation with George Shoemaker, about 50, near Oldtown, and his 21-year-old son.

Stevens was treated last night at Memorial Hospital for a possible fractured jaw. Hospital attaches said several of his teeth were loosened and added that X-rays will be taken this morning.
